In today's software-centric economy, time to market and customer experience wins. The pressure to deliver more, faster, falls squarely on the shoulders of software development teams everywhere. In order to meet those demands, the way software is developed and tested has changed. Testing can no longer be done manually by QA teams alone at the end of the development cycle. Today, testing needs to be continuous and performed by many different teams throughout the software development cycle.

Sauce Labs ensures today's leading apps and websites work flawlessly on every browser, operating system and device. By providing the world's largest continuous testing cloud for web and mobile applications, Sauce Labs frees development teams from the hassle of maintaining test infrastructure so they can deliver apps faster and delight their users—without hindering developer productivity.

OUR VISION

To make testing fast, reliable and easy throughout the software development process.

DELIVER APPLICATIONS FASTER

It's a fact—you cannot implement Continuous Integration (CI) or Continuous Delivery (CD) without automated testing. Yet many teams are still struggling because testing simply takes too long. With Sauce Labs, customers can accelerate their testing time by an average of 10x, thereby removing testing as a bottleneck to achieve their deployment goals without increasing the risk of a poor customer experience. You can achieve quality at speed with Sauce Labs.

DELIGHT USERS

In today's economy a superior customer experience often means increased revenue. When tests are automated and run in the cloud, development teams can test across more browser, OS and device combinations in less time. You will not only improve the customer experience but can easily enter new markets with instant access to any browser, OS or device combo in the Sauce Labs Continuous Testing Cloud.

IMPROVE DEVELOPER PRODUCTIVITY

The Sauce Labs platform lets you test all your web and mobile apps in one place, enabling developers to standardize tests to maximize efficiency. Our reliable test infrastructure means your developers can be confident in the results and not waste time chasing false failures. In addition, actionable insights into test results such as metalogs, videos and screenshots make it easy to find and fix bugs when errors do occur. The result is happier and more productive developers — all without the headache and costs of maintaining your own internal test grid or physical device lab.

LEADERSHIP

The Sauce Labs management team provides the vision, guidance and experience to insure our customers achieve success and that our team works in an environment grounded in transparency, integrity, respect, and fun.
