- The price of the letter includes the first sheet of paper, the first page (print surface), the letter, the envelope and postage. The price of the additional page covers the following pages (printing surfaces), the paper sheets they require and the impact on postage. When double-sided printing is used, a blank page has to be added to letters with an odd number of pages. This page will be invoiced as an additional page.
- The transaction price is based on the total volume of letters during the month. The price for additional pages is based on the additional page volume during the month.
- The price for color printing covers 20% color coverage. There may be an additional fee for any color coverage exceeding that share.
