Sunbit Raises $130 million in Series D Financing

Sunbit Raises $130 million in Series D Financing

FT PARTNERS RESEARCH

Transaction Summary

Transaction Summary

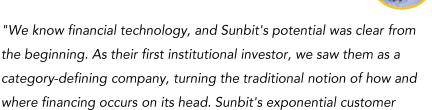

- On May 20, 2021, Sunbit, a buy now pay later (BNPL) technology company, announced that it has secured $130 million in Series D financing led by existing investor Group 11
 - The round also included participation from existing investor Zeev Ventures, and new investors Migdal Insurance, Harel Group, AltalR Capital, and More Investment House
 - According to the Company, this round values Sunbit at $1.1 billion
- The financing comes as Sunbit is scaling rapidly, posting consistent 2x year-over-year growth in both revenue and transactions
 - Within the last five years, the Company claims to have cornered the market in areas where BNPL is not available and traditional financing is the only option
 - Sunbit is adding more than 300 merchant locations and tens of thousands of new customers per month as its technology is available in over 7,300 locations today
- The Company plans to use the funds to expand its merchant footprint to reach more retailers and service providers, online and offline
 - Sunbit also intends to develop more products that serve its customers and merchants, helping them to facilitate transactions and optimize their budgets and their bottom lines

Transaction Commentary

"The continued support from existing investors as well as new commitments from esteemed investors such as Migdal Insurance and Harel Group underscores the impact we are making in the sizable markets we serve. Our hyper-growth illustrates that there is a demand for our unique buy now, pay later solution built for everyday needs. The new capital will enable us to further disrupt the $216 billion auto service and repair industry and the combined $330 billion dental, eyewear, and elective healthcare industries -- markets that are stuck in the era of '80s-style financing."

Arad Levertov CEO & Co-Founder

the beginning. As their first institutional investor, we saw them as a category-defining company, turning the traditional notion of how and where financing occurs on its head. Sunbit's exponential customer growth creates a wealth of expansion opportunities and I fully expect Sunbit to be a decacorn within the next five years."
