0x Labs Raises $70 million in Series B Financing

Transaction Overview

Transaction Summary

- On April 26, 2022, San Francisco-based decentralized exchange provider 0x Labs announced that it has raised $70 million in Series B financing
 - The round was led by Greylock with additional participation from Sound Ventures, A.Capital Ventures, OpenSea, and several individual investors
 - Existing investors including Coinbase, Pantera Capital, Jump Crypto and IOSG Ventures also participated in the round
 - The Series B funding round comes on the heels of a $15 million Series A raise led by Pantera Capital in 2021
- 0x Labs plans to use the new funds to expand its headcount and continue to grow out its product and service offerings, including 0x Protocol, 0x API, and Matcha, a search engine for tokens
 - The Company will also continue to integrate new chains such as Solana, and invest in cross-chain functionality and expanding its support for NFT swaps
- Co-Founder and Co-CEO Will Warren stated that the new round of funding will be instrumental in furthering the Company's mission to build a "tokenized world where all value can flow freely" by onboarding the next wave of users, businesses, and institutions to Web3

Transaction Commentary

"0x Labs helps businesses eliminate the complexity of accessing decentralized markets across all layers of the Web3 exchange stack. We provide solutions that can be used to easily incorporate exchange functionality for all tokenized assets, including cryptocurrencies, DeFi tokens, and NFTs, at the best prices and with the lowest transaction costs. By using 0x technology, businesses will have more time to focus on what matters: their product."

Amir Bandeali
Co-Founder and Co-CEO

"All verticals of Decentralized Exchange exploded in 2021. What's exciting is that we are still very early on the DEX adoption curve. 0x Labs is at the forefront of that development and is perfectly positioned to lead the Web3 charge as more and more value is tokenized and needs a standard to be moved and exchanged. The 0x Labs team has been around since the early days of Ethereum and play such a significant role in the broader Web3 ecosystem. We are really excited to work with the 0x Labs team as they level up Web3."
