

ASCENTIAL GLOBAL PRIVACY POLICY

For Money20/20 Cookies Policy, click here

This global privacy policy explains how Ascential Group Limited and/or its affiliates (“Ascential” referred to as “we”, “us” or “our”) handle your personal data, including the types of personal data we collect about you, how your personal data may be used and when it may be disclosed, how we protect your personal data and the rights you have in relation to the processing of your personal data. Ascential respects your privacy and we are committed to protecting your personal data in accordance with applicable data privacy laws and our internal policies.

In the event of conflict between a translated version of this global privacy policy and the English version, the English version shall prevail.

1. Who is the controller of my personal data? Unless we notify you otherwise, Ascential Group Limited is the controller of your personal data as it is the entity who alone or jointly determines how or why your personal data is being processed. Our affiliates may be the controller of your personal data in certain circumstances depending on our relationship, and the services we are providing to you. A list of our group of affiliates can be found here.

2. How do we collect your personal data? We use different methods to collect personal data from and about you, including: -

Collection directly from you Most of the personal data we process about you comes directly from you. You may give us your name and contact details when filling in forms or corresponding with us by email, phone, mail, in person or otherwise including when you: - subscribe to our services, products or email alerts; and buy or express an interest in our products and services (including attending an event). Automatic collection We automatically collect technical information when you use our websites, for example: - IP address, log-in data, browser type, time zone setting and location and plug-in types when you interact with our websites. We also collect data through cookies. Please see our cookies policy for further details.

Collection from other sources We may collect information about you from third parties and public sources (such as public databases and social media websites). This is to ensure we have accurate, up to date or necessary information for us to communicate with you or to provide the best possible service. The types of information we may collect includes personal details (including name, age, gender and other demographic data) and contact information (including postal address and telephone numbers).

3. For which purposes and on which legal basis do we process your personal data? We have set out below a description of all the ways we plan to use your personal data and which legal basis we rely on to do so. We have also identified what our legitimate interests are, where appropriate.

Legal basis	Purpose
Necessary for the compliance with a legal obligation to which we are subject. Necessary for the performance of a contract to which you are a party.	Complying with legal requirements. Managing our contractual relationship with you.

Justified on the basis of our legitimate interest in ensuring the proper functioning of our business operations.	Operating and managing our business operations and/or improving our products, service and event experience.
Justified on the basis of our legitimate interest in ensuring that we can conduct and increase our business.	Marketing or communicating information to you related to our products and services, unless you have objected to such processing, as further described in the section 3 “How do we use personal data for direct marketing purposes?” We may also share personal data with our affiliates for this purpose, as further described at section 6 below.
Justified on the basis of our legitimate interest in ensuring we can conduct and increase our business and those of our business partners.	Sharing personal data with selected partners (including sponsors), as further described in section 6 below.
Justified on the basis of our legitimate interest in ensuring network and information security.	Monitoring your use of our systems (including using technical tools to automatically monitor the use of our website and any apps and tools you use).
Justified on the basis of our legitimate interest in ensuring that you receive an excellent user experience.	Improving the security and functioning of our website, networks and information.
Justified on the basis of our legitimate interest in ensuring the proper functioning of our business operations.	Undertaking data analytics, i.e. applying analytics to business operations and data to describe, predict and improve business performance within Ascential and/or to provide a better user experience. (more details on how we run analytics on our website can be found in our cookie policy.

4. How do we use personal data for direct marketing purposes? We may send you marketing communications to keep you up to date with our products and services, including those we think may be of interest to you.

Do we send targeted e-mails? We send targeted electronic direct marketing to business contacts at our clients or other companies with whom we want to develop or maintain a business relationship in accordance with applicable marketing laws. Our electronic direct marketing typically includes web beacons, cookies, and similar technologies that allow us to know whether you open, read, or delete the message, and links you may click. When you click a link in an electronic direct marketing message, we will also use a cookie to log what pages you view and what content you download from our websites, even if you are not registered at or signed into our site. Please see our cookies policy for further details.

Do we maintain Customer Relationship Management (CRM) databases? Like most companies, Ascential uses customer relationship management (CRM) database technology to manage and track our marketing efforts. Our CRM databases include personal data belonging to business contacts at our clients and other companies with whom we already have a business relationship or want to develop one. The personal data used for these purposes includes relevant business information such as: contact data, publicly available information (e.g. board membership, published articles, press releases, your public posts on social media sites if relevant for business purpose), your responses to targeted electronic direct marketing (including web activity following links from our e-mails), website activity of registered users of our website and other business information included by Ascential professionals based on their personal interactions with you.

Do we combine and analyse personal data? We may combine data from publicly available sources, and from our different e-mail, website, and personal interactions with you (this includes information collected across our different websites such as our careers and corporate sites and information collected when you sign-up or log on to our sites or connect to our sites using your social media credentials). We combine this data to better assess your experience with Ascential and to perform the other activities described throughout this privacy policy.

What are your rights regarding marketing communications? You can elect to not receive marketing communications from us by, or by utilising opt-out mechanisms in e-mails we send to you. You can also object to receiving marketing communications or request that your personal data be removed from our CRM databases by contacting us at www.ascential.com/data.

5. What about sensitive data? We do not generally seek to collect sensitive data (also known as special categories of personal data) from individuals and we request that you please do not submit sensitive data to us. In the limited cases where we do seek to collect such data, we will do this in accordance with data privacy law requirements and/or ask for your consent.

The term "sensitive data" refers to the various categories of personal data including racial or ethnic origin, political opinions, religious, philosophical or other similar beliefs, membership of a trade union, physical or mental health, biometric or genetic data, sexual life or orientation, or criminal convictions and offences (including information about suspected criminal activities).

6. What about persons 18 or under? We are concerned to protect the privacy of children. We do not knowingly contact or collect information from persons under the age of 18. The website is not intended to solicit information of any kind from persons under the age of 18.

If you believe that we have received information pertaining to or from persons under the age of 18 please contact us at www.ascential.com/data ; or dpo@ascential.com. If we become aware that a person under the age of 18 has provided us with personal information, we will take steps to delete such information.

7. Will we share your personal data with third parties? We may share personal data with the following categories of recipients:

Our affiliates, so they can send you communications about their products and services (as further described in section 3 above) Our third-party service providers, including IT service providers, marketing automation, solutions and analytics providers, marketing agencies, professional advisors, and Our selected partners, representatives and sponsors, for example we may share attendee lists with event sponsors so that they can better plan their sponsorship to enhance attendee experience and, where applicable, to choose invitees to private briefings, meetings or dinners, or we may make available contact details to create marketing opportunities in certain industries and markets. We may also share your personal data with public and governmental authorities if we are required to do so, or with third parties in connection with potential corporate or commercial transaction.

Before we share your personal data with any third parties, we take the necessary steps to ensure that your personal data will be given adequate protection in accordance with relevant data privacy laws and Ascential's internal policies.

8. How long will your personal data be retained by us? We retain your information for no longer than necessary for the purpose for which it was collected. We maintain specific records management and retention policies and procedures, so that in determining how long your information will be stored, we will consider:

the purpose(s) and use of your information both now and in the future; our global legal and contractual obligations; and what information we need to manage your relationship with us and to develop and deliver our products and services.

9. Do we transfer your data internationally? As we are a global organisation with a presence in a number of jurisdictions and countries, we may transfer your personal data to our affiliates internationally. If you are located in the EEA, this may involve transferring your data outside the EEA. To ensure that such transfers are in accordance with applicable law and carefully managed to protect your privacy rights, any inter-company transfers of personal data are covered by agreement(s) which contractually oblige(s) us to ensure adequate and consistent levels of protection wherever personal data is transferred within our group of companies. We may also share your personal data with third parties (see section 6), some of which are based outside the EEA. Whenever we transfer your personal data outside the EEA, we ensure a similar degree of protection is afforded it by ensuring appropriate safeguards are implemented, for example we may use specific contracts approved by the European Commission. Please contact us (see our details at section 10 below) if you would like further information on the mechanism used by us when transferring your personal data outside the EEA.

10. Data security. We maintain organizational, physical and technical security arrangements for all the personal data we hold. We have protocols, controls and relevant policies, procedures and guidance to maintain these arrangements taking into account the risks associated with the categories of personal data and the processing we undertake, including as appropriate: -

The pseudonymisation and encryption of personal data; The ability to ensure the ongoing confidentiality, integrity, availability and resilience of processing systems and services; The ability to restore the availability and access to personal data in a timely manner in the event of a physical or technical incident; and A process for regularly testing, assessing and evaluating the effectiveness of technical and organisational measures for ensuring the security of personal data.

11. Which rights do you have with respect to the processing of your personal data? If you are based within the EEA, you may be entitled under certain circumstances to: -

Request access to the personal data we process about you: this right entitles you to know whether we hold personal data about you and, if we do, to obtain information on and a copy of that personal data. Request a rectification of your personal data: this right entitles you to have your personal data corrected if it is inaccurate or incomplete. Object to the processing of your personal data: this right entitles you to request that Ascential no longer processes your personal data. Request the erasure of your personal data: this right entitles you to request the erasure of your personal data, including where such personal data would no longer be necessary to achieve the purposes. Request the restriction of the processing of your personal data: this right entitles you to request that Ascential only processes your personal data in limited circumstances, including with your consent. Request portability of your personal data: this right entitles you to receive a copy (in a structured, commonly used and machine-readable format) of personal data that you have provided to Ascential, or request Ascential to transmit such personal data to another data controller. Request not to be subject to any decision that significantly affects you being taken by automated processing, including profiling. If you are based in CALIFORNIA you have many of the rights set out at section 11 and you are entitled under certain circumstances to:-

Request access to certain information about the personal data we have shared with third parties for direct marketing purposes.

Please contact us at www.ascential.com/data to exercise any of these rights. We will process any request in line with any local laws and our policies and procedures. We may ask you for additional information to confirm your identity and for security purposes, before disclosing information requested to you.

12. What if you have questions or want further information? Any questions regarding this notice and our privacy practices should be sent using www.ascential.com/data or by writing to Director of Compliance and DPO, Ascential Group Limited, The Prow, 1 Wilder Walk, London, United Kingdom, W1B 5AP, or by email at dpo@ascential.com.

If you wish to make a complaint about how we use your information, please contact us using www.ascential.com/data and we will do our best to help. If you are located in the EEA, you have the right to lodge a complaint with the appropriate data protection supervisory authority in your country. We would, however, appreciate the chance to deal with your concerns before you approach your local supervisory authority so please contact us in the first instance.