You Choose

The Day We Found the

THING

Once upon a time on the prairie,

CHARACTER

VERB

near the

SETTING

when something

ADJECTIVE

caught their eye.

Half-buried in the earth was a

CHARACTER

VERB

and leaned in for a closer look. The light made it hard to see at first.

ADJECTIVE

They reached down and picked up the

THING

. Where had it come from?

Who had left it behind? Maybe someone had passed through this land long before them.

ADJECTIVE

CHARACTER

tucked the

THING

under their arm

and headed home. That night, the whole family

VERB

close together around the

THING

. They set the

THING

on the table next to a

NOUN

and just looked at it for a long while. And from that day on,

CHARACTER

would just smile and say that sometimes the land leaves you a little something to let you know you belong.
