Contents

Prej Ack		dgments	xvii xix
Pa	rt O	ne: Lawyers and the Legal Landscape	1
1.	Ove	rview of the Lawyer's Role	3
	I.	Writing and a Lawyer's Roles	3
	II.	Overview of a Civil Case	5
	III.	Ethical Duties Legal Citation	8 10
	1 V.	A. Plagiarism	10
		B. When to Cite	11
2.	Sou	rces of Law, the Common-Law Process, and
	Wei	ght of Authority	15
	I.	Sources of Law	15
		A. The Structure of Court Systems	16
	II.	The Functions of Trial and Appellate Courts A. The Functions of Trial Courts	19 19
		B. The Functions of Appellate Courts	19
	III.	The Common-Law Process	20
		A. Stare Decisis	21
		B. HoldingsC. The Breadth of Holdings	21 22
		D. Holdings Versus Dicta	25
	IV.	The Weight of Authority	27
		A. Primary Authority Versus Secondary Authority	27
		B. Mandatory Authority Versus Persuasive AuthorityC. Other Characteristics Affecting the Persuasive Value of Cases	28 30
		C. Other Characteristics Anceting the reistasive value of cases	50
Pa	rt T	wo: Reading and Analyzing the Law	33
3.	Rea	ding and Synthesizing Cases	35
	I.	8	35
	II.	Introduction to Case Briefing	36
	III. IV.	Tools for Finding New Information About the Rule Synthesizing Cases	37 38
	1	A. Using Consistent Cases	38
		B. Reconciling Seemingly Inconsistent Cases	39
4.	Inte	rpreting Statutes	47
	I.	Reading Statutes	47
	II.	Identifying Issues	50
	III. IV.	Interpreting the Statute's Language Interpreting Statutory Language: Canons of Construction	51 53
	T Å.	interpreting statutory language. Canons of Construction))

xii Contents

5.	Forms of Legal Reasoning
	I.	Rule-Based Reasoning	55
	II.	Analogical Reasoning: Analogizing and Distinguishing Cases	56
	III.	Policy-Based Reasoning	58
	IV.	Principle-Based Reasoning	59
	V.	Custom-Based Reasoning	59
	VI.	Inferential Reasoning	60
	VII.	Narrative	62

Part Three: Writing the Discussion of a Legal Question

6.		Writing Process and Law-Trained Readers	67
	Ι.	The Writing Process	67
	II.	Law-Trained Readers	71
		A. Focus on the Reader	71 72
		B. Attention LevelsC. Road Maps	72
		D. Readers as Commentators	74
		E. Judges as Readers	74
		F. Law Professors as Readers	77
7.	Larg	e-Scale Organization: Creating an Annotated Outline	79
	I.	Outlining a Rule: Rule Structures	79
	II.	Creating an Annotated Outline	84
		A. The First Level: The Legal Questions You
		Have Been Asked to Address	85
		B. The Second Level: Governing Rules	85
		C. The Next Levels: Filling in the Rules	86
		D. Omitting Issues Not in Dispute	87
		E. Uncertainty About Which Rule Your	87
		Jurisdiction Will Adopt F. Annotating Your Outline	87
8.	Sma	ll-Scale Organization: Explaining the Law	89
	I.	An Overview of the Paradigm for Legal Analysis	89
	II.	Stating the Conclusion	90
	III.	Stating the Governing Rule	91
	IV.	Explaining the Rule: Five Components	92
	V.	Guidelines for Rule Explanation	93 95
	VI.	Organizing a Pure Question of Law
9.	Sma	ll-Scale Organization: Applying the Law	101
	I.	Two Approaches to Writing the Application Section	101
	II.	Content of Rule Application	102
	III.	Common Trouble Spots in Rule Application Sections	103
	IV.	Evaluating Your Draft	107
10.	Disc	ussing Multiple Issues: Putting It All Together	109
	I.	Ordering for Your Reader	110
		A. Accounting for Elements Not at Issue	110
		B. Selecting an Order for the Remaining Issues	110
	II.	Umbrella Sections	111
	III.	The Conclusion	114

65

IV. V.	Editing Subsection Lengths Variations of the Multi-Issue Paradigm	115 115
11. Dee І. II. III.	pening Your Analysis Using Policies and Principles in Rule Explanation Using Analogical Reasoning in Rule Application A. Deciding Which Similarities and Differences Are Significant B. Choosing a Format for Your Case Comparison Using Factual Inferences in Rule Application	119 119 122 122 123 126
Part F	our: Predictive Writing	129
12. Writ I. II. III. IV. V. V. VI.	The Function of an Office Memo An Overview of the Office Memo Format Drafting the Heading Drafting the Question Presented Drafting the Brief Answer Drafting the Fact Statement	131 131 133 133 137 139
VII. VIII.	A. Fact SelectionB. Organizing the Fact StatementC. Remembering Your RoleDrafting the ConclusionWriting an E-Memo	140 141 142 143 145
13. Writ I. II. III.	ing Professional Correspondence General Characteristics of Professional Correspondence Advice Letters Special Considerations for E-mails and Texts A. E-mails B. Texts	149 149 152 153 153 158
Part Five: The Shift to Advocacy 161
14. Intro I. II. III. IV.	oduction to Brief Writing Ethics and the Advocate's Craft Judges, Briefs, and Persuasion The Components of a Trial-Level Brief The Components of an Appellate Brief	163 163 166 168 171
15. Que І. II.	 stions Presented and Persuasive Headings Writing the Question Presented Persuasive Headings A. Identifying Point Headings B. Drafting Point Headings C. Editing Point Headings for Readability and Persuasion D. Identifying Subheadings E. Formatting of Headings 	175 175 180 180 182 185 188 188
16. Writ I.	ing the Argument Section Arguments for Different Kinds of Legal Issues A. A Pure Question of Law B. An Issue of Statutory Interpretation C. An Issue of Common Law Case Synthesis	191 191 191 192 192

xiv Contents

I.	 D. A Case of First Impression in Your Jurisdiction E. Seeking a Change in the Law F. An Issue Applying Law to Fact Honing Your Argument for the Court's Role A. The Trial Judge B. Appellate Judges and the Appellate Process Reminders About Organization Using Case Comparisons to Support Your Argument Rebutting Your Opponent's Arguments Using Legal Theory to Sharpen Your Arguments Idards of Review Categories of Trial Court Decisions 	193 194 194 195 195 195 195 196 199 201 202 203 203
II. III.	Advocating for a More Favorable Standard of Review Conforming Headings to the Standard of Review	207 208
18. Writ	ing a Statement of Facts	211
I.	Fact Ethics and the Conventions of Statement of Facts	212
	A. Fact EthicsB. The Conventions of a Statement of Facts	212 212
II.	Developing a Theory of the Case and Selecting Facts	212
	A. Developing a Theory of the Case	214
	B. Selecting and Citing to Facts	216
III.	Organization A. Formats	216 216
	B. Subheadings	210
	C. Procedural History	217
IV.	Techniques for Persuasion	218
	A. General Principles	218
	B. Large-Scale Organization	219 220
	C. Paragraph OrganizationD. Techniques with Sentences	220
	E. Other Small-Scale Techniques	222
Part S	ix: Style and Formalities	229
	tions and Quotations	231
I.	Citation in Legal Writing	231
II.	Citation Form	233
	A. Using the ALWD Guide to Legal Citation	233
	B. Using the Bluebook	235
	C. Several Key Concepts D. Introduction to Citation Form	236 237
	E. Matching the Citation to the Text	239
	F. Citing with Style and Grace	241
	G. Editing Citation Form	243
III.	Quotations	249
	A. When Quotation Marks Are RequiredB. Choosing to Use Quotation Marks	250 251
	C. Overquoting	251
	D. The Mechanics of Quoting	253
	E. Editing Quotations	254

Contents

I. Paragraphing 258 II. Choose Strong Subjects and Verbs 261 A. Active Voice 261 B. Nominalizations 262 C. Throat-Clearing 264 D. Sentences Beginning with Forms of "It Is" or "There Is" 264 III. Avoiding Wordiness 265 A. Revise Phrases That Can Be Replaced by a Single Word 265 B. Avoid Legalese 266 C. Avoid Auched Pairs 267 D. Avoid Matched Pairs 267 E. Avoid Intensifiers 267 V. Other Characteristics of Good Style 268 A. Keeping the Subject and Verb Close Together 268 B. Avoiding Long Sentences 269 C. Unnecessary Variations 269 D. Parallelism 270 A. Techniques for Nouns: Elimination or Substitution 271 B. Techniques for Pronours (They, Them, Theirs, She, He, Hers, His) 271 C. Techniques for Proper Names and Titles 278 Part Seven: Oral Advocacy 278 B. Preliminary Formalities 278 C. The Appellant's Argument 278 D. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellant 279 <th>20.</th> <th>Para</th> <th>graphs, Sentences, and Style</th> <th>257</th>	20.	Para	graphs, Sentences, and Style	257
II. Choose Strong Subjects and Verbs 261 A. Active Voice 261 B. Nominalizations 262 C. Throat-Clearing 264 D. Sentences Beginning with Forms of "It Is" or "There Is" 264 III. Avoid Ucgalese 265 A. Revise Phrases That Can Be Replaced by a Single Word 265 B. Avoid Legalese 266 C. Avoid Matched Pairs 267 D. Avoid Matched Pairs 267 F. Avoid Intensifiers 267 O. Unnecessary Variations 269 C. Unnecessary Variations 269 C. Herniques for Nouns: Elimination or Substitution 271 B. Techniques for Proper Names and Titles 273 Parallelism V. Gender-Neut		I.	Paragraphing	258
A. Active Voice 261 B. Nominalizations 262 C. Throat-Clearing 264 D. Sentences Beginning with Forms of "It Is" or "There Is" 264 III. Avoiding Wordiness 265 A. Revise Phrases That Can Be Replaced by a Single Word 265 B. Avoid Legalese 266 C. Avoid Redundancies 267 D. Avoid Matched Pairs 267 E. Avoid Intensifiers 267 D. Avoid Matched Pairs 266 C. Avoid Redundancies 267 D. Avoid Matched Pairs 267 E. Avoid Intensifiers 267 D. Avoid Matched Pairs 267 E. Avoid Intensifiers 267 D. Avoid ing Sentences 269 C. Unnecessary Variations 269 V. Gender-Neutral Writing 270 A. Techniques for Pronouns (They, Them, Theirs, She, He, Hers, His) 271 C. Techniques for Proper Names and Titles 273 Part Seven: Oral Advocacy 21. Oral Argument 278 D. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellant 279 E. The Appellant'A Argument 278		II.		261
C. Throat-Clearing 264 D. Sentences Beginning with Forms of "It Is" or "There Is" 264 H. Avoiding Wordincss 265 A. Revise Phrases That Can Be Replaced by a Single Word 265 B. Avoid Redundancies 267 D. Avoid Redundancies 267 E. Avoid Intensifiers 267 E. Avoid Intensifiers 267 E. Avoid Intensifiers 267 V. Other Characteristics of Good Style 268 A. Keeping the Subject and Verb Close Together 268 B. Avoiding Long Sentences 269 C. Unnecessary Variations 269 D. Parallelism 269 V. Gender-Neutral Writing 270 A. Techniques for Nouns: Elimination or Substitution 271 B. Techniques for Proper Names and Titles 273 Part Seven: Oral Advocacy 275 21. Oral Argument 277 I. The Purpose of Oral Argument 277 I. The Purpose of Oral Argument 277 B. Preliminary Formalities 278 A. Timing 278 B. Preliminary Formalities 278 B. Preliminary Formalities 278 B. Preliminary Formalities 278 B. Preliminary Formalities 278 C. The Appellant's Argument 278 C. The Appellent's Argument 278 C. The Appellee's Argument 278 D. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellant 279 E. The Appellee's Argument 280 H. Reburtal 112 II. Oral Argument in Trial Court 281 II. Oral Argument of Proof 282 C. The Appellee's Argument 280 H. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellee 280 G. Concluding the Argument 281 II. The Courtent 281 A. The Standard of Review 281 A. The Standard of Review 281 A. The Standard of Review 281 B. The Burden of Proof 282 C. The Trial-Level Procedural Posture 281 A. The Record 283 B. Outline Your Argument 283 C. Preparation 283 A. The Record 283 B. Outline Your Argument 283 C. Preparation 283 B. Outline Your Argument 283 C. Preparation 283 C. Preparation 283 C. Preparation 283 C. Preparation 283 C. Prepared Your Argument 283 C. Prepared Net Portof 283 C. The Trial-Level Procedural Posture 283 B. Outline Your Argument 283 C. Preparation 283 C. Prepared Your Argument 283 C. Preparate Your Folder 284			A. Active Voice	261
D.Sentences Beginning with Forms of "It Is" or "There Is"264III.Avoiding Wordiness265A.Revise Phrases That Can Be Replaced by a Single Word265B.Avoid Legalese266C.Avoid Redundancies267D.Avoid Matched Pairs267E.Avoid Intensifiers267IV.Other Characteristics of Good Style268A.Keeping the Subject and Verb Close Together268B.Avoiding Long Sentences269C.Unnecessary Variations269D.Parallelism269V.Gender-Neutral Writing270A.Techniques for Nouns: Elimination or Substitution271B.Techniques for Propours (They, Them, Theirs, She, He, Hers, His)271C.Techniques for Proper Names and Titles273Part Seven: Oral Advocacy21.Oral Argument277I.The Purpose of Oral Argument278A.Timing278B.Preliminary Formalities278C.The Appellart's Argument278D.Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellant279E.The Appellee's Argument281I.Oral Argument in Trial Court281I.A.The gruenent in Trial Court281I.Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellee280G.Concluding the Argument283I.Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellee283 <t< td=""><td></td><td></td><td>B. Nominalizations</td><td>262</td></t<>			B. Nominalizations	262
III.Avoiding Wordiness265A. Revise Phrases That Can Be Replaced by a Single Word265B. Avoid Legalese266C. Avoid Redundancies267D. Avoid Matched Pairs267E. Avoid Intensifiers267F. Avoid Intensifiers267IV. Other Characteristics of Good Style268A. Kceping the Subject and Verb Close Together268B. Avoiding Long Sentences269C. Unnecessary Variations269D. Parallelism269V. Gender-Neutral Writing270A. Techniques for Pronouns (They, Them, Theirs, She, He, Hers, His)271C. Techniques for Proper Names and Titles273Part Seven: Oral Advocacy21. Oral Argument277I. The Purpose of Oral Argument278A. Timing278B. Preliminary Formalities278C. The Appellant's Argument278D. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellent279E. The Appellee's Argument280F. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellee280G. Concluding the Argument281I. The Standard of Review281B. The Burden of Proof282C. The Trial-Level Procedural Posture282D. Theres283A. The Record283B. The Burden of Proof282C. The Content281A. The Standard of Review281B. The Burden of Proof282C. The Trial-Level Procedural Posture283A. The Reco			C. Throat-Clearing	264
III.Avoiding Wordiness265A. Revise Phrases That Can Be Replaced by a Single Word265B. Avoid Legalese266C. Avoid Redundancies267D. Avoid Matched Pairs267E. Avoid Intensifiers267IV.Other Characteristics of Good Style268A. Keeping the Subject and Verb Close Together268B. Avoiding Long Sentences269C. Unnecessary Variations269D. Parallelism269D. Parallelism269C. Unnecessary Variations269D. Parallelism270A. Techniques for Nouns: Elimination or Substitution271B. Techniques for Proper Names and Titles273Part Seven: Oral Advocacy27521. Oral Argument277I. The Purpose of Oral Argument278B. Preliminary Formalities278C. The Appellant's Argument278D. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellet280F. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellee280F. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellee280F. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellee281II. The Content281A. The Standard of Review281B. The Burden of Proof282II. The Content283A. The Standard of Review281B. The Burden of Proof282D. Themes283G. The Appellee Topening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal283B. Outline Your Argument283<			D. Sentences Beginning with Forms of "It Is" or "There Is"	264
A. Revise Phrases That Can Be Replaced by a Single Word265B. Avoid Redundancies267D. Avoid Matched Pairs267E. Avoid Intensifiers267F. Avoid Intensifiers267V. Other Characteristics of Good Style268A. Keeping the Subject and Verb Close Together268B. Avoiding Long Sentences269C. Unnecessary Variations269D. Parallelism269V. Gender-Neutral Writing270A. Techniques for Nouns: Elimination or Substitution271B. Techniques for Proper Names and Titles273Part Seven: Oral Advocacy21. Oral Argument277I. The Purpose of Oral Argument278A. Timing278B. Preliminary Formalities278C. The Appellant's Argument279E. The Appellee's Argument280F. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellant279E. The Appellee's Argument280F. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellee280H. Rebuttal281I. Oral Argument in Trial Court281I. The Standard of Review281B. The Burden of Proof282D. Themes282IV. Preparation283B. Outline Your Argument283B. Outline Your Argument283B. Outline Your Argument283B. The Appellee's Argument283B. The Standard of Review281B. The Burden of Proof282D. Themes283B. O		III.		265
B. Avoid Legalese 266 C. Avoid Redundancies 267 D. Avoid Matched Pairs 267 E. Avoid Intensifiers 267 IV. Other Characteristics of Good Style 268 A. Keeping the Subject and Verb Close Together 268 B. Avoiding Long Sentences 269 C. Unnecessary Variations 269 D. Parallelism 269 V. Gender-Neutral Writing 270 A. Techniques for Nonus: Elimination or Substitution 271 C. Techniques for Propen Names and Titles 273 Part Seven: Oral Advocacy 275 21. Oral Argument 277 I. The Purpose of Oral Argument 278 A. Timing 278 B. Preliminary Formalities 278 C. The Appellart's Argument 278 D. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellant 279 E. The Appellart's Argument 280 F. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellee 280 G. Concluding the Argument 280 F. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellee 281 I. The Suppellee's Argument 282 C. The Appellee's Argument </td <td></td> <td></td> <td>A. Revise Phrases That Can Be Replaced by a Single Word</td> <td>265</td>			A. Revise Phrases That Can Be Replaced by a Single Word	265
D. Avoid Matched Pairs267E. Avoid Intensifiers267IV. Other Characteristics of Good Style268A. Keeping the Subject and Verb Close Together268B. Avoiding Long Sentences269C. Unnecessary Variations269D. Parallelism270A. Techniques for Nouns: Elimination or Substitution271B. Techniques for Pronouns (They, Them, Theirs, She, He, Hers, His)271C. Techniques for Proper Names and Titles273Part Seven: Oral Advocacy27521. Oral ArgumentI. The Purpose of Oral Argument277I. Formalities and Organization278A. Timing278B. Preliminary Formalities278C. The Appellant's Argument278D. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellant279F. The Appellee's Argument280F. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellee280G. Concluding the Argument281A. The Standard of Review281M. The Standard of Review281M. The Record283A. The Record283B. Outline Your Argument283C. Prepared Robutal283B. Outline Your Argument283C. Prepared Robutal284D. Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and YourPrepared Robutal284F. Practice284F. Visit the Courtroom285V. Handling Questions from the Bench285			B. Avoid Legalese	266
E. Avoid Intensifiers267IV. Other Characteristics of Good Style268A. Keeping the Subject and Verb Close Together268B. Avoiding Long Sentences269C. Unnecessary Variations269D. Parallelism269V. Gender-Neutral Writing270A. Techniques for Nouns: Elimination or Substitution271B. Techniques for Proper Names and Titles273Part Seven: Oral Advocacy27521. Oral Argument277I. The Purpose of Oral Argument278B. Preliminary Formalities278B. Trechniques for Proment for the Appellant278D. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellant278D. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellee280F. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellee280G. Concluding the Argument281I. Oral Argument in Trial Court281II. The Standard of Review281B. The Burden of Proof282D. Therand of Review281B. The Burden of Proof282C. The Trial-Level Procedural Posture282D. Themes282D. Therea283A. The Record283B. Outline Your Argument283B. Outline Your Argument283C. Prepared Rebuttal283B. Outline Your Argument283G. Corcluding the Argument283G. Corcluding the Conclusion, and Your283F. Prepared Rebuttal283G. The Trial-Le			C. Avoid Redundancies	267
IV.Other Characteristics of Good Style268A.Keeping the Subject and Verb Close Together269C.Unnecessary Variations269D.Parallelism269V.Gender-Neutral Writing270A.Techniques for Nouns: Elimination or Substitution271B.Techniques for Proper Names and Titles273Part Seven: Oral Advocacy27521.Oral Argument277I.The Purpose of Oral Argument277I.The Purpose of Oral Argument278A.Timing278B.Preliminary Formalities278C.The Appellaer's Argument278D.Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellant279E.The Appellee's Argument280F.Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellee280G.Concluding the Argument281I.Oral Argument in Trial Court281II.The Standard of Review281B.The Burden of Proof282C.The Trial-Level Procedural Posture282D.Themes283A.The Record283B.Outline Your Argument283B.Outline Your Argument283G.Drepare Your Folder284D.Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal284F.Visit the Courtroom285G.B. Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285<			D. Avoid Matched Pairs
A. Keeping the Subject and Verb Close Together268B. Avoiding Long Sentences269C. Unnecessary Variations269D. Parallelism269V. Gender-Neutral Writing270A. Techniques for Pronouns (They, Them, Theirs, She, He, Hers, His)271B. Techniques for Proper Names and Titles273Part Seven: Oral Advocacy27521. Oral Argument1. The Purpose of Oral Argument1. The Purpose of Oral Argument278B. Preliminary Formalities278C. The Appellant's Argument279E. The Appellant's Argument280G. Concluding the Argument280F. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellant279E. The Appellee's Argument280H. Rebuttal281I. The Content281M. The Standard of Review281B. The Burden of Proof282C. The Trial-Level Procedural Posture282D. Thermes282IV. Preparation283A. The Record283B. Outline Your Argument283C. Prepare Your Folder284D. Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal284F. Visit the Courtroom285G. Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V. Handling Questions from the Bench285			E. Avoid Intensifiers	267
B.Avoiding Long Sentences269C.Unnecessary Variations269D.Parallelism269V.Gender-Neutral Writing270A.Techniques for Nouns: Elimination or Substitution271B.Techniques for Proper Names and Titles273Part Seven: Oral Advocacy27521.Oral Argument277I.The Purpose of Oral Argument278A.Timing278B.Preliminary Formalities278C.The Appellant's Argument278D.Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellant279E.The Appellant's Argument280F.Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellee280G.Concluding the Argument281I.Oral Argument in Trial Court281III.The Standard of Review281B.The Burden of Proof282C.The The Standard of Review281B.Ortile Vour Argument283A.The Record283B.Outline Your Argument283B.Outline Your Argument283C.Prepare Rebuttal284F.Visit the Courtroom285G.Be repared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V.Handling Questions from the Bench285		IV.	Other Characteristics of Good Style	268
C.Unnecessary Variations269D.Parallelism269V.Gender-Neutral Writing270A.Techniques for Nouns: Elimination or Substitution271B.Techniques for Proper Names and Titles273Part Seven: Oral Advocacy27521. Oral Argument277I.The Purpose of Oral Argument277I.Formalities and Organization278A.Timing278B.Preliminary Formalities278C.The Appellant's Argument278D.Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellant279E.The Appellee's Argument280F.Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellee280G.Concluding the Argument281I.Oral Argument in Trial Court281III.The Standard of Review281B.The Burden of Proof282C.The Herord283A.The Record283B.Outline Your Argument283B.Outline Your Argument283B.Outline Your Argument283C.Preparation283A.The Record284E.Practice284F.Visit the Courtroom285G.Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V.Handling Questions from the Bench285V.Handling Questions from the Bench285			A. Keeping the Subject and Verb Close Together
D. Parallelism269V. Gender-Neutral Writing270A. Techniques for Nouns: Elimination or Substitution271B. Techniques for Pronouns (They, Them, Theirs, She, He, Hers, His)271C. Techniques for Proper Names and Titles273Part Seven: Oral Advocacy27521. Oral ArgumentI. The Purpose of Oral Argument277I. The Purpose of Oral Argument278A. Timing278B. Preliminary Formalities278C. The Appellant's Argument278D. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellant279E. The Appellee's Argument280G. Concluding the Argument280H. Rebuttal281I. The Standard of Review281B. The Burden of Proof282D. The Appelle of Procedural Posture282D. The Appert283A. The Standard of Review281B. The Burden of Proof282D. Themes282IV. Preparation283A. The Record283B. Outline Your Argument283C. Prepare Your Folder284D. Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal284E. Practice284F. Visit the Courtroom285V. Handling Questions from the Bench285V. Handling Questions from the Bench285			B. Avoiding Long Sentences
V.Gender-Neutral Writing270A.Techniques for Nouns: Elimination or Substitution271B.Techniques for Proper Names and Titles273Part Seven: Oral Advocacy21.Oral Argument277I.The Purpose of Oral Argument277I.Formalities and Organization278A.Timing278B.Preliminary Formalities278C.The Appellant's Argument278D.Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellant279E.The Appellee's Argument280F.Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellee280G.Concluding the Argument281I.Oral Argument in Trial Court281II.The Standard of Review281B.The Burden of Proof282C.The Trial-Level Procedural Posture282D.Themes283A.The Record283B.Outline Your Argument283C.Preparet Rout Folder284F.Visit the Courtroom285G.Ber Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V.Handling Questions from the Bench285A.Anticipate Questions285			C. Unnecessary Variations
A. Techniques for Nours: Elimination or Substitution271B. Techniques for Pronouns (They, Them, Theirs, She, He, Hers, His)271C. Techniques for Proper Names and Titles273Part Seven: Oral Advocacy21. Oral Argument277I. The Purpose of Oral Argument277I. Formalities and Organization278B. Preliminary Formalities278B. Preliminary Formalities278C. The Appellant's Argument278D. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellant279E. The Appellee's Argument280G. Concluding the Argument280H. Rebuttal281I. Oral Argument in Trial Court281M. The Standard of Review281B. The Burden of Proof282C. The Trial-Level Procedural Posture282D. Themes283A. The Record283B. Outline Your Argument283C. Preparet Rour Folder283C. The Trial-Level Procedural Posture283C. The Trial-Level Procedural Posture283C. The Trial-Level Procedural Posture283C. Preparet Your Folder284D. Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal284E. Practice284F. Visit the Courtroom285G. Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V. Handling Questions from the Bench A. Anticipate Questions285
B.Techniques for Pronouns (They, Them, Theirs, She, He, Hers, His) C.271 TC.Techniques for Proper Names and Titles273Part Seven: Oral Advocacy27521.Oral Argument277I.The Purpose of Oral Argument277I.The Purpose of Oral Argument278A.Timing278B.Preliminary Formalities278C.The Appellant's Argument278D.Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellant279E.The Appellee's Argument280G.Concluding the Argument280H.Rebuttal281I.Oral Argument in Trial Court281II.The Standard of Review281B.The Burden of Proof282C.The Trial-Level Procedural Posture282D.Themes283A.The Record283B.Outline Your Argument283C.Preparet Rour Folder284D.Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal284E.Practice284F.Visit the Courtroom285G.Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V.Handling Questions from the Bench A.285		V.
C. Techniques for Proper Names and Titles273Part Seven: Oral Advocacy27521. Oral Argument277I. The Purpose of Oral Argument277I. The Purpose of Oral Argument277I. Formalities and Organization278A. Timing278B. Preliminary Formalities278C. The Appellant's Argument278D. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellant279E. The Appellee's Argument280F. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellee280G. Concluding the Argument280H. Rebuttal281I. Oral Argument in Trial Court281III. The Content281A. The Standard of Review281B. The Burden of Proof282C. The Trial-Level Procedural Posture282D. Themes283A. The Record283B. Outline Your Argument283C. Prepare Your Folder284D. Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal284F. Visit the Courtroom285G. Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V. Handling Questions from the Bench A. Anticipate Questions285			A. Techniques for Nouns: Elimination or Substitution
Part Seven: Oral Advocacy27521. Oral Argument277I. The Purpose of Oral Argument277I. Formalities and Organization278A. Timing278B. Preliminary Formalities278C. The Appellant's Argument278D. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellant279E. The Appellee's Argument280F. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellee280G. Concluding the Argument281I. Oral Argument in Trial Court281II. The Content281A. The Standard of Review281B. The Burden of Proof282C. The Trial-Level Procedural Posture282D. Themes283A. The Record283B. Outline Your Argument283C. Prepare Your Folder284P. Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal284F. Visit the Courtroom285G. Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V. Handling Questions from the Bench A. Anticipate Questions285
21. Oral Argument277I. The Purpose of Oral Argument277II. Formalities and Organization278A. Timing278B. Preliminary Formalities278C. The Appellant's Argument278D. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellant279E. The Appellee's Argument280F. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellee280G. Concluding the Argument280H. Rebuttal281I. Oral Argument in Trial Court281III. The Content281A. The Standard of Review281B. The Burden of Proof282D. Themes282IV. Preparation283A. The Record283B. Outline Your Argument283C. Prepare Your Folder284E. Practice284F. Visit the Courtroom285G. Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V. Handling Questions from the Bench285A. Anticipate Questions285			C. Techniques for Proper Names and Titles	273
I.The Purpose of Oral Argument2777II.Formalities and Organization278A.Timing278B.Preliminary Formalities278C.The Appellant's Argument278D.Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellant279E.The Appellee's Argument280F.Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellee280G.Concluding the Argument280H.Rebuttal281I.Oral Argument in Trial Court281III.The Content281A.The Standard of Review281B.The Burden of Proof282C.The Trial-Level Procedural Posture282D.Themes283B.Outline Your Argument283B.Outline Your Argument283B.Outline Your Argument284D.Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal284E.Practice284F.Visit the Courtroom285G.Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V.Handling Questions from the Bench285A.Anticipate Questions285	Pa	rt S	even: Oral Advocacy	275
II.Formalities and Organization278A. Timing278B.Preliminary Formalities278C.The Appellant's Argument278D.Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellant279E.The Appellee's Argument280F.Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellee280G.Concluding the Argument280H.Rebuttal281I.Oral Argument in Trial Court281III.The Content281A.The Standard of Review281B.The Burden of Proof282C.The Trial-Level Procedural Posture282D.Themes283A.The Record283B.Outline Your Argument283C.Preparation283B.Outline Your Argument284D.Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal284E.Practice284F.Visit the Courtroom285G.Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V.Handling Questions from the Bench A.285	21.	Oral	Argument	277
II.Formalities and Organization278A.Timing278B.Preliminary Formalities278C.The Appellant's Argument278D.Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellant279E.The Appellee's Argument280F.Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellee280G.Concluding the Argument281I.Oral Argument in Trial Court281III.The Content281A.The Standard of Review281B.The Burden of Proof282C.The Trial-Level Procedural Posture282D.Themes283A.The Record283B.Outline Your Argument283C.Prepare Your Folder284D.Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal284F.Visit the Courtroom285G. Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V.Handling Questions from the Bench A. Anticipate Questions285		I.	The Purpose of Oral Argument	277
B. Preliminary Formalities278C. The Appellant's Argument278D. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellant279E. The Appellee's Argument280F. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellee280G. Concluding the Argument280H. Rebuttal281I. Oral Argument in Trial Court281III. The Content281A. The Standard of Review281B. The Burden of Proof282C. The Trial-Level Procedural Posture282D. Themes283A. The Record283B. Outline Your Argument283C. Prepare Your Folder284D. Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal284F. Visit the Courtroom285G. Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V. Handling Questions from the Bench A. Anticipate Questions285		II.	Formalities and Organization	278
C. The Appellant's Argument278D. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellant279E. The Appellee's Argument280F. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellee280G. Concluding the Argument280H. Rebuttal281I. Oral Argument in Trial Court281III. The Content281A. The Standard of Review281B. The Burden of Proof282C. The Trial-Level Procedural Posture282D. Themes283A. The Record283B. Outline Your Argument283C. Prepare Your Folder284D. Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal284F. Visit the Courtroom285G. Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V. Handling Questions from the Bench285A. Anticipate Questions285			A. Timing
D. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellant279E. The Appellee's Argument280F. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellee280G. Concluding the Argument280H. Rebuttal281I. Oral Argument in Trial Court281III. The Content281A. The Standard of Review281B. The Burden of Proof282C. The Trial-Level Procedural Posture282D. Themes282IV. Preparation283A. The Record283B. Outline Your Argument283C. Prepare Your Folder284D. Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal284F. Visit the Courtroom285G. Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V. Handling Questions from the Bench285A. Anticipate Questions285
E. The Appellee's Argument280F. Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellee280G. Concluding the Argument280H. Rebuttal281I. Oral Argument in Trial Court281III. The Content281A. The Standard of Review281B. The Burden of Proof282C. The Trial-Level Procedural Posture282D. Themes283A. The Record283B. Outline Your Argument283C. Prepare Your Folder284D. Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal284F. Visit the Courtroom285G. Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V. Handling Questions from the Bench285A. Anticipate Questions285			C. The Appellant's Argument
F.Argument of Co-Counsel for the Appellee280G.Concluding the Argument280H.Rebuttal281I.Oral Argument in Trial Court281III.The Content281A.The Standard of Review281B.The Burden of Proof282C.The Trial-Level Procedural Posture282D.Themes283A.The Record283B.Outline Your Argument283C.Preparation283C.Prepare Your Folder284D.Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal284E.Practice284F.Visit the Courtroom285G.Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V.Handling Questions from the Bench285A.Anticipate Questions285
G. Concluding the Argument280H. Rebuttal281I. Oral Argument in Trial Court281III. The Content281A. The Standard of Review281B. The Burden of Proof282C. The Trial-Level Procedural Posture282D. Themes282IV. Preparation283A. The Record283B. Outline Your Argument283C. Prepare Your Folder284D. Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal284E. Practice284F. Visit the Courtroom285G. Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V. Handling Questions from the Bench A. Anticipate Questions285
H. Rebuttal281I. Oral Argument in Trial Court281III. The Content281A. The Standard of Review281B. The Burden of Proof282C. The Trial-Level Procedural Posture282D. Themes282IV. Preparation283A. The Record283B. Outline Your Argument283C. Prepare Your Folder284D. Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal284E. Practice284F. Visit the Courtroom285G. Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V. Handling Questions from the Bench A. Anticipate Questions285
I. Oral Argument in Trial Court281III. The Content281A. The Standard of Review281B. The Burden of Proof282C. The Trial-Level Procedural Posture282D. Themes282IV. Preparation283A. The Record283B. Outline Your Argument283C. Prepare Your Folder284D. Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal284E. Practice284F. Visit the Courtroom285G. Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V. Handling Questions from the Bench A. Anticipate Questions285
III.The Content281A.The Standard of Review281B.The Standard of Review281B.The Burden of Proof282C.The Trial-Level Procedural Posture282D.Themes282IV.Preparation283A.The Record283B.Outline Your Argument283C.Prepare Your Folder284D.Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal284E.Practice284F.Visit the Courtroom285G.Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V.Handling Questions from the Bench285A.Anticipate Questions285
A. The Standard of Review281B. The Burden of Proof282C. The Trial-Level Procedural Posture282D. Themes282IV. Preparation283A. The Record283B. Outline Your Argument283C. Prepare Your Folder284D. Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal284E. Practice284F. Visit the Courtroom285G. Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V. Handling Questions from the Bench A. Anticipate Questions285
B. The Burden of Proof282C. The Trial-Level Procedural Posture282D. Themes282IV. Preparation283A. The Record283B. Outline Your Argument283C. Prepare Your Folder284D. Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal284E. Practice284F. Visit the Courtroom285G. Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V. Handling Questions from the Bench285A. Anticipate Questions285		III.
C. The Trial-Level Procedural Posture282D. Themes282IV. Preparation283A. The Record283B. Outline Your Argument283C. Prepare Your Folder284D. Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal284E. Practice284F. Visit the Courtroom285G. Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V. Handling Questions from the Bench A. Anticipate Questions285
D. Themes282IV. Preparation283A. The Record283B. Outline Your Argument283C. Prepare Your Folder284D. Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal284E. Practice284F. Visit the Courtroom285G. Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V. Handling Questions from the Bench A. Anticipate Questions285
IV.Preparation283A.The Record283B.Outline Your Argument283C.Prepare Your Folder284D.Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal284E.Practice284F.Visit the Courtroom285G.Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V.Handling Questions from the Bench285A.Anticipate Questions285			-
A. The Record283B. Outline Your Argument283C. Prepare Your Folder284D. Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal284E. Practice284F. Visit the Courtroom285G. Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V. Handling Questions from the Bench285A. Anticipate Questions285
B. Outline Your Argument283C. Prepare Your Folder284D. Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal284E. Practice284F. Visit the Courtroom285G. Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V. Handling Questions from the Bench A. Anticipate Questions285		** /
C.Prepare Your Folder284D.Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal284E.Practice284F.Visit the Courtroom285G.Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V.Handling Questions from the Bench285A.Anticipate Questions285		IV.	Preparation	283
D. Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal284E. Practice284F. Visit the Courtroom285G. Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V. Handling Questions from the Bench285A. Anticipate Questions285		IV.	Preparation A. The Record	283 283
Prepared Rebuttal284E. Practice284F. Visit the Courtroom285G. Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V. Handling Questions from the Bench285A. Anticipate Questions285		IV.	Preparation A. The Record B. Outline Your Argument	283 283 283
E. Practice284F. Visit the Courtroom285G. Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V. Handling Questions from the Bench285A. Anticipate Questions285		IV.	Preparation A. The Record B. Outline Your Argument C. Prepare Your Folder	283 283 283
F. Visit the Courtroom285G. Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V. Handling Questions from the Bench285A. Anticipate Questions285		IV.	PreparationA. The RecordB. Outline Your ArgumentC. Prepare Your FolderD. Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your	283 283 283 284
G. Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually285V. Handling Questions from the Bench285A. Anticipate Questions285		IV.	 Preparation A. The Record B. Outline Your Argument C. Prepare Your Folder D. Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal 	283 283 283 284 284
V. Handling Questions from the Bench285A. Anticipate Questions285		IV.	 Preparation A. The Record B. Outline Your Argument C. Prepare Your Folder D. Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal E. Practice 	283 283 283 284 284 284
A. Anticipate Questions 285		IV.	 Preparation A. The Record B. Outline Your Argument C. Prepare Your Folder D. Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal E. Practice F. Visit the Courtroom 	283 283 283 284 284 284 284 285
			 Preparation A. The Record B. Outline Your Argument C. Prepare Your Folder D. Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal E. Practice F. Visit the Courtroom G. Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually 	283 283 283 284 284 284 285 285
			 Preparation A. The Record B. Outline Your Argument C. Prepare Your Folder D. Script the Entire Opening, the Conclusion, and Your Prepared Rebuttal E. Practice F. Visit the Courtroom G. Be Prepared to Conduct an Oral Argument Virtually Handling Questions from the Bench 	283 283 283 284 284 284 284 285 285 285

xv

xvi Contents

	С. D. Е.	Recognize Types of Questions Listen Carefully to the Question Clarify the Question	286 286 286
	F.	Begin with a Clear, Direct Answer	287
	G.	Returning to Your Prepared Presentation	287
	Η.	Handling Questions on Your Co-Counsel's Issue	287
	I.	Handling a Question for Which You Do Not Have an Answer	287
	J.	Agreeing When You Can	288
	К.	Referring to Earlier Questions or Comments from the Bench	288
VI.	Pre	sentation	288
	Α.	Dress	288
	В.	Body, Hands, and Eyes	288
	С.	Voice	289
	D.	References	289
	Ε.	Nervousness	289
Appendic	ces		291
		Sample Office Memorandum	293
~ ~		B Sample E-Memo	299
~ ~		Sample Trial-Level Brief	301
) Sample Appellate Brief	307
~ ~			323
~ ~	Appendix E Sample Informal Advice Letter Appendix F Cases
Append	ΙΛΓ	Cases	327
Index			333