

Contents

Preface	xxiii
Acknowledgments	xxvii

Chapter 1	Introduction to Evidence, Relevance, and Prejudice	I
	The Role of the Lawyers and the Judge	2
	Is the Evidence Relevant?	3
	When the Answer to the Question of Relevance Is “Maybe”: The Doctrine of Conditional Relevance	6
	Establishing Conditional Relevance	7
	When Is the Evidence Irrelevant?	8
	Objecting to Improper Evidence	9
	Objections Overruled and the Doctrine of Limited Admissibility	11
	After the Relevance Analysis: Other Reasons to Exclude Relevant Evidence	12
	Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: No Significant Difference	13
	The Balancing Test: Probative Value vs. Prejudicial Effect	16
	What Is the Probative Value of the Evidence?	17
	Evaluating the Probative Value of Circumstantial Evidence	17
	Factors in Evaluating Prejudicial Effect	19
	Balancing the Weight of the Probative Value and the Prejudicial Effect	20
	Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: No Significant Difference	21
Chapter 2	The Character Evidence Exclusion Rules	27
	Dangers of Character Evidence	28
	Using Character Evidence	29
	The First Purpose: To Prove Character Itself When Character Is at Issue	30
	The Second Purpose: Circumstantial Use of Character Evidence to Prove Conduct in Conformity	31

Contents

Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: No Substantial Differences	32
The Third Purpose: To Prove Something Other Than Character or Conduct in Conformity	33
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Notable Difference	38
The Three Basic Kinds of Character Evidence	38
Opinion Evidence	39
Reputation Evidence	39
Specific Instances of Conduct	40
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: No Notable Difference	43
Habit Evidence	43
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: No Notable Differences	44
Exceptions to the Character Evidence Ban	51
Criminal Defendant's Character to Prove Conduct: CEC 1102	52
The Racialization of Character Evidence	56
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Notable Differences	57
Other Sexual Offenses by the Criminal Defendant: CEC 1108	57
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Minor Differences	60
Other Crimes of Domestic Violence by the Criminal Defendant: CEC 1109	60
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Notable Differences	61
The Character of the Victim Exceptions: CEC 1103	66
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Notable Differences	68
The Victim's Character in Sexual Offenses: CEC 1103(c)	70
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Notable Differences	71
The Character of the Victim in Civil Cases Alleging Sexual Abuse: CEC 1106	72
Note on the Truth in Evidence Provision (Proposition 8)	73
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Notable Differences	74

Contents

Chapter 3	Other Policy Exclusions for Relevant Evidence	83
	Subsequent Remedial Conduct	84
	Illustrations of Which Measures Are Not Admissible	84
	Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: One Notable Difference	85
	Offers to Compromise	86
	Humanitarian Offers	87
	What Is Not Protected from Disclosure	88
	Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Notable Differences	89
	Offers to Plead Guilty	89
	Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Notable Differences	90
	Liability Insurance	91
	Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Notable Difference	92
	Expressions of Sympathy and Benevolence	92
	Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: One Notable Difference	93
	Mediation Provisions	93
	Other Less Frequently Used Policy Exclusions	94
	Evidence to Test a Verdict	94
	Records of Medical or Dental Study of In- Hospital Staff Committee	94
	Records of Medical and Psychiatric Studies of Quality Assurance Committees	95
	Diagnosis of “Excited Delirium”	95
	Proceeding or Records of Organized Committees on Quality of Care	95
	Animal Experimentation in Products Liability Actions	95
	Human Trafficking and Sex Work	96
Chapter 4	The Hearsay Rule	103
	The Rationale for Excluding Hearsay	104
	Illustrating the Decrease in Reliability with Hearsay	106
	The Hearsay Analysis	107
	1. Is this a Statement?	107
	2. Was the Statement Made Out of this Court’s Hearing?	111
	3. What Is the Statement Being Offered to Prove?	112
	Options for Admitting Statements that May Constitute Hearsay	114
	Call the Declarant to Testify in Court	114

Contents

Show That the Statement Does Not Meet the Three Elements of Hearsay	114
Determine Whether the Statement Satisfies a Hearsay Exception	115
Double Hearsay	115
Common Non-truth Purposes	116
To Prove Facts That Are Material Under The Substantive Law (M)	116
To Explain Why: Subsequent Conduct/Effect on Listener (Y)	117
To Prove Relevant Knowledge (K)	118
To Prove Further Investigation Was Required (I)	118
To Prove a Warning Was Given (W)	118
To Prove Conscious or Alive (A)	119
To Prove the Nature of a Place of Business (N)	119
To Impeach a Witness (I)	120
To Prove Indirect State of Mind or Emotion (S)	120
Limitations on Use for Non-TOMA Purposes	121
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Notable Differences	121
Chapter 5	The Confrontation Clause and Unavailability	129
The Confrontation Clause	130
When Hearsay Declarants Are Not Physically Present at Trial	131
Modern History of Confrontation	132
Indicia of Reliability	132
Firmly Rooted Hearsay Exceptions	133
Particularized Guarantees of Inherent Trustworthiness	133
The Standard: Only Testimonial Statements Implicate the Confrontation Clause	134
Determining Whether a Statement Is Testimonial	136
Statements to Police Officers and Emergency Personnel	137
Statements in Scientific Reports	139
Satisfying the Confrontation Clause When a Statement Is Testimonial	140
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: No Significant Difference	142
Determining Whether a Declarant Is Unavailable	142
Privilege	143
Disqualified	143
Dead or Mentally or Physically Ill	144
Absent When the Court Is Unable to Compel Attendance	144

Contents

	Absent Despite Reasonable Efforts to Get the Witness into Court	144
	Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: No Significant Difference	146
Chapter 6	Hearsay Exceptions That Apply Only When the Declarant Is Unavailable	153
	Declarations Against Interest	153
	Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Notable Differences	157
	Dying Declarations	157
	Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Notable Differences	159
	Previously Existing State of Mind	159
	Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Notable Differences	161
	Declarations Relating to Wills and Estates	162
	Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Minor Differences	162
	Hearsay Exceptions for Former Testimony	163
	Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Notable Differences	169
	Other Limited Exceptions	170
	Procurement or Wrongdoing by the Proponent	170
	Unavailability Due to Homicide or Kidnapping	171
	Prior Statements of Deceased Declarant Regarding Gangs	172
	Statements of Threats	172
	Other Limited Exceptions	173
	Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Notable Differences	173
	Forfeiture and the Confrontation Clause	174
Chapter 7	Hearsay Exceptions: Party Admissions and Prior Statements of Witnesses	183
	Admissions as Exceptions to the Hearsay Rule	184
	Any Statement Can Be an Admission	185
	Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Notable Difference	188
	Adoptive Admissions	188
	Express, Implied, and Tacit Adoption	190
	Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: No Significant Difference	192

Contents

Authorized Admissions	192
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Notable Differences	193
Co-Conspirators' Admissions	194
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Notable Differences	197
Discretion in the Order of Proof	198
Other Exceptions to the Hearsay Rule: Prior Statements of Witnesses	207
Prior Inconsistent Statements	207
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Notable Differences	209
Prior Consistent Statements	209
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: No Significant Differences	213
Refreshing Recollection	213
Past Recollection Recorded	214
Is It Past Recollection Recorded?	215
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: No Significant Differences	216
Statements of Identification	216
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Minor Differences	217

Chapter 8 Other Hearsay Exceptions 225

Spontaneous Statements	226
The Standards for Determining Whether the Elements Are Met	228
The Rationale for this Exception	228
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Notable Differences	229
Contemporaneous Statements	229
The Standards for Determining Whether the Elements Are Met	230
The Rationale for this Exception	231
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Substantive Differences	231
State of Mind Declarations	232
Indirect State of Mind Is Non-hearsay	232
Direct State of Mind Requires a Hearsay Exception	232
Determining Whether the Content of the Statement Involves Declarant's State of Mind	233
The Timing Element of the Statement: Then Existing	234

Contents

Using the Statement to Prove Subsequent Conduct	234
The Trustworthiness Element	235
Federal Rules of Evidence
Compared: Substantive Differences	235
Multiple Levels of Hearsay	236
Some Less Common Hearsay Exceptions	237
Hearsay Exceptions for Documents	246
Business Records	246
The Elements of the Hearsay Exception for
Business Records	248
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Notable
Differences	249
The Absence of an Entry	250
Records by a Public Employee	251
Public Employee Records and Testimonial Statements
in Criminal Cases	252
Absence of an Entry in Public Employee Records	253
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Notable
Differences	253
Chapter 9
Witness Testimony Foundations	259
Witness Competency	260
Truth-Telling	261
Personal Knowledge	262
Translators	263
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Minor Differences	264
Judges as Witnesses	264
Jurors as Witnesses	265
Federal Rules of Evidence
Compared: Substantive Differences	266
Questioning Witnesses: Direct, Cross-, and Redirect
Examinations	266
The Types of Witness Examinations	266
The Order of Witness Examinations	267
Using Leading Questions in Witness Examinations	268
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Minor Differences	268
Impeaching and Supporting Credibility	272
Civil Cases: CEC 786, 787, and 790	278
Criminal Cases: Proposition 8/The Truth in
Evidence Provision	281
Federal Rules of Evidence
Compared: Substantive Differences	283

Contents

Limitations on Credibility Attacks: Religious Beliefs, Sexual History, and Hypnosis	285
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Some Substantive Differences	287
Chapter 10 Opinion Testimony: Lay and Expert	293
Lay Opinions	294
Opinion Rationally Based on the Witness's Perception	295
Opinion Helpful to the Trier of Fact	296
Expert Opinions	297
The Basis for the Expert Opinion and the Reasonable Reliance Test	299
Using Hypothetical Questions with Experts	301
Using Inadmissible Information with Experts	301
The Confrontation Clause and Sanchez Error	302
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Minor Differences	303
Qualifying the Expert	303
Cross-Examining the Expert	304
Examining the Basis for the Expert Opinion	306
Examining Bias and Other Interests	307
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Some Substantive Differences	307
The Kelly Test for New Scientific Techniques and Procedures: General Acceptance	311
Examples of the Misleading Aura of Infallibility	312
How to Satisfy Kelly	313
Choosing the Right Test: Kelly or Reasonable Reliance?	313
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Substantive Differences	315
Expert Opinions Allowed on Ultimate Factual Issues but Not Legal Issues	316
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Minor Differences	318
Court-Appointed Experts: CEC 730–733	318
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Minor Differences	319
Expert Opinions on Specific Issues: CEC 810–824	319
The Intimate Partner Battering Exception: CEC 1107	320
Chapter 11 The Burden of Proof, Presumptions, and Judicial Notice	333
The Burden of Proof	334
The Burden of Producing Evidence	336
Presumptions and Inferences	341
Conclusive Presumptions	341

Contents

Rebuttable Presumptions	342
Presumptions in Criminal Cases	346
Federal Rules of Evidence
Compared: Substantive Differences	347
Judicial Notice: CEC 450–460	352
Mandatory Judicial Notice	352
Permissive Judicial Notice	353
Determining Whether Judicial Notice Is Appropriate	353
Denying Judicial Notice	354
Federal Rules of Evidence
Compared: Substantive Differences	355
Chapter 12 Authentication and the Secondary Evidence Rule	359
Authentication	360
What Is a Writing?	361
Methods of Authentication	361
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Minor Differences	366
The Secondary Evidence Rule	370
Types of Secondary Evidence	371
When the Secondary Evidence Rule Does Not Apply	377
Presumptions for Proving Content	377
Putting It All Together: Meeting the Authentication and Secondary Evidence Requirements	378
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Minor Differences	379
The Completeness Doctrine	379
Federal Rules of Evidence
Compared: Substantive Differences	380
Chapter 13 Introduction to Privileges; Professional Relationship Privileges	385
The General Approach to Analyzing Privileges	386
Ruling on Claims of Privilege	389
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: No Corresponding FRE	390
The Attorney-Client Privilege: CEC 950–962	390
The Lawyer	391
The Client	391
Confidential Communications	392
Communications in the Corporate Context	394
Claiming the Privilege	396

Contents

Waiver and Disclosures	397
Exceptions to the Attorney-Client Privilege: CEC 956–962	398
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: Notable Differences	401
The Physician-Patient Privilege: CEC 990–1007	412
Exceptions to the Physician-Patient Privilege	414
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: No Corresponding FRE	415
The Psychotherapist-Patient Privilege: CEC 1010–1027	417
Exceptions to the Psychotherapist-Patient Privilege	420
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: No Corresponding FRE	422
Chapter 14 Personal, Relationship, Counseling, and Other Privileges	429
Privilege Against Self-Incrimination	430
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: No Difference	433
Spousal Testimony Privileges	436
Privilege to Decline to Testify Against Your Spouse	437
Privilege When Your Spouse Is a Party	438
Waiving the Spousal Testimony Privileges	439
Exceptions	440
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: No Corresponding FRE	441
Confidential Marital Communications Privilege	443
A Spouse Whether or Not a Party	443
Has a Privilege During the Marital Relationship and Afterward	444
To Refuse to Disclose and to Prevent Another from Disclosing	444
A Communication Made in Confidence	444
Between One Spouse and the Other Spouse While They Were Legally Married	444
Holder and Waiver	445
Exceptions	445
Federal Rules of Evidence Compared: No Corresponding FRE	447
The Clergy-Penitent Privileges	452
Waiver	453
Other Less Common Privileges	457
Sexual Assault Victim-Counselor Privilege	457
Domestic Violence Victim-Counselor Privilege	458

Contents

Human Trafficking Caseworker-Victim Privilege	458
Official Information and Identity of Informer Privilege	458
Political Vote Privilege	461
Trade Secrets Privilege	461
Newspaper Immunity Privilege	462

Conclusion 467

Table of Hearsay Exceptions with Crossover to the Federal Rules of Evidence	469
Index	473