

Contents

Acknowledgments	xxi
Introduction	xxiii

Part A Introduction to Law

1	Rules and Policies	3
	A. Legal Rules	3
	B. Law and Policy	4
	Exercise 1-A	8
	Exercise 1-B	8
2	Sources of Law	11
	A. The Hierarchy of Laws	11
	B. The Hierarchy of Jurisdictions	13
	C. The Hierarchy and Jurisdiction of Courts	13
	D. Source Material for Researching the Law	16
	1. Primary Authority	16
	2. Secondary Authority	18
	Exercise 2-A	20
	Exercise 2-B	21
3	Case Analysis and Case Briefs	23
	A. Read the opinion carefully.	26
	1. Identify the holding.	26
	2. Identify the issue.	28
	3. Identify the rule.	30
	4. Identify the facts.	32
	5. Identify the disposition of the case.	34
	6. Identify the reasons and policies.	35
	B. Check for congruency.	36
	C. In multiple-issue cases, analyze each issue separately.	37
	Exercise 3-A	40
	Exercise 3-B	40
	Exercise 3-C	41

4	Precedent and Stare Decisis	43
	Exercise 4-A	49
	Exercise 4-B	50
	Exercise 4-C	51
	Exercise 4-D	52
5	Reading and Understanding Statutes	55
	A. Read the statute carefully.	58
	B. Identify the purpose of the statute.	59
	C. Identify the scope of the statute.	61
	D. Understand how terms are defined.	62
	E. Identify the requirements of the statute.	64
	F. Identify any exceptions.	67
	Exercise 5-A	69
	Exercise 5-B	70
Part B Basic Concepts of Legal Method
6	Understanding Legal Rules	73
	A. How Rules Are Constructed	73
	1. Elements of a Rule	74
	2. The Result and Its Relationship to the Elements	75
	3. Exceptions in a Rule	75
	4. Sub-elements	76
	B. Developing a Rule from Multiple Sources: Synthesis	77
	Exercise 6-A	85
	Exercise 6-B	85
	Exercise 6-C	86
	Exercise 6-D	86
7	Identifying and Selecting Issues for Analysis	89
	A. Focus only on questions within the scope of the problem.	92
	B. Identify all relevant questions.	93
	C. Exclude “givens” from detailed discussion.	101
	D. Separate issues and sub-issues.	102
	Exercise 7-A	105
	Exercise 7-B	107
	Exercise 7-C	110
8	Common Law Analysis	115
	A. Analyze the facts of the decided cases.	121
	1. Determine how they support an outcome in one side’s favor.	121

2.	Determine how they support an outcome in the other side's favor.	122
B.	Analyze the reasons and policies of the decided cases.	122
1.	Determine how they support an outcome in one side's favor.	122
2.	Determine how they support an outcome in the other side's favor.	123
C.	Use your analysis to draw a conclusion about the likely outcome.	125
	Exercise 8-A	127
	Exercise 8-B	127
	Exercise 8-C	128
9	Statutory Analysis	131
A.	Analyze the language of the statute and any cases interpreting the statute.	136
1.	Determine how they support one side's position.	136
2.	Determine how they support the other side's position.	137
B.	Analyze the reasons and policies of the decided cases.	137
1.	Determine how they support one side's position.	137
2.	Determine how they support the other side's position.	139
C.	Use your analysis to draw a conclusion about the likely outcome.	140
	Exercise 9-A	142
	Exercise 9-B	142
	Exercise 9-C	142
	Exercise 9-D	143
	Exercise 9-E	144
10	Reaching a Conclusion	147
A.	A position is stronger to the extent that it involves little or no extension of existing law.	148
B.	A position is stronger to the extent that it furthers the policies or purposes of the law.	150
C.	When the law does not require a particular result, a position is stronger to the extent that it involves a fair or just outcome for the parties.	152
	Exercise 10-A	155
	Exercise 10-B	155
	Exercise 10-C	155

Part C Basic Concepts of Legal Writing

11	Organization	159
	A. Address “givens” at the outset of your analysis.	160
	B. Discuss each issue separately.	163
	C. Discuss each sub-issue separately.	166
	D. For each issue or sub-issue, describe the applicable law before applying it to the factual situation.	169
	E. State the reasons supporting your conclusion on an issue or sub-issue before discussing counterarguments.	171
	F. When there is more than one issue, discuss the issues in a logical order.	174
	Exercise 11-A	177
	Exercise 11-B	179
	Exercise 11-C	181
12	Describing the Law	185
	A. Be accurate.	185
	B. Describe only the relevant law.	188
	C. Describe the law in enough detail to enable your reader to understand the discussion.	189
	D. Summarize the law whenever appropriate.	191
	E. Synthesize the law whenever necessary.	194
	Exercise 12-A	201
	Exercise 12-B	201
	Exercise 12-C	201
	Exercise 12-D	201
13	Applying the Law	203
	A. Be precise.	203
	B. Show every step in your analysis.	205
	C. Describe every reasonable basis for your conclusion.	207
	D. Explain the context.	210
	Exercise 13-A	213
	Exercise 13-B	213
	Exercise 13-C	213
	Exercise 13-D	213
14	Drafting the Analysis	215
	A. Purpose	215
	B. Process	215
	C. Audience	218

D. Drafting the Analysis	218
1. For each issue, state your conclusion and set up your analysis of the issue in an introduction.	220
2. For each sub-issue, state your conclusion in terms of the rule and the relevant facts.	221
3. Describe the law relevant to your conclusion for each sub-issue.	222
4. Explain why the law supports your conclusion for each sub-issue.	224
5. Describe any reasonable support for the contrary conclusion on each sub-issue and state why it is unpersuasive.	226
6. Describe how the law supports the contrary conclusion for each sub-issue.	228
7. Explain why the potential support for the contrary conclusion does not change your conclusion for each sub-issue.	229
8. Include signposts to lead the reader from one point to the next.	231
Exercise 14-A	239
Exercise 14-B	243
Exercise 14-C	243
Exercise 14-D	243
Exercise 14-E	243

15 Revising and Editing 245

A. Revising Your Draft	246
1. Use thesis statements to set out your conclusion for each issue and sub-issue.	247
2. Use paragraphs to divide the discussion into manageable parts.	247
3. Use a topic sentence to define the purpose of a paragraph.	251
4. Use transitions effectively to show the relationship between ideas.	252
B. Editing	255
1. Be direct and precise.	256
a. Eliminate extraneous facts.	257
b. Edit intrusive or misplaced words and phrases.	258
c. Use verbs whenever possible to make your writing forceful.	259
2. Blend precision with simplicity.	260

	a.	Scrutinize sentences beginning with “there” or “it.”	261
	b.	Be concise.	262
	3.	Use correct grammar, punctuation, and spelling.	266
		Exercise 15-A	268
		Exercise 15-B	269
		Exercise 15-C	270
		Exercise 15-D	271
Part D Office Memoranda and the Opinion Letter
16	Objective Writing		275
	A.	Principles of Objective Writing	276
		1. Think like a judge.	277
		2. State your conclusion on each issue or sub-issue objectively and candidly.	278
		3. Describe the law objectively.	279
		4. Explain the analysis objectively.	281
	B.	Special Considerations for Email Communication	283
		1. Be professional.	283
		2. Take your time.	284
		3. Proofread before sending.	284
		4. Honor the need for client confidentiality.	285
		Exercise 16-A	287
		Exercise 16-B	287
		Exercise 16-C	287
		Exercise 16-D	287
17	Elements of a Summary-of-the-Law Memorandum		289
	A.	Work Requested or Question Presented	290
	B.	Brief Answer	291
	C.	Summary of the Relevant Law	292
		1. State the relevant legal rule or rules at the outset of your summary.	292
		2. State the element(s) or sub-issue(s) relevant to the question.	293
		3. Explain the law relevant to each element or sub-issue.	293
		4. Conclude by summarizing the key points of the law or explaining how the law answers the question.	296
		Exercise 17-A	298
		Exercise 17-B	298
		Exercise 17-C	298

18	Elements of an Analytical Legal Memorandum	299
	A. Heading	299
	B. Questions Presented	300
	1. Be understandable.	301
	2. Be objective.	301
	C. Brief Answer(s) (optional)	305
	D. Statement of Facts	306
	1. Identify the legally significant facts.	308
	2. Identify key background facts.	310
	3. Organize the facts intelligibly.	310
	4. Describe the facts accurately and objectively.	311
	E. Discussion	313
	F. Conclusion	313
	Exercise 18-A	316
	Exercise 18-B	316
	Exercise 18-C	316
	Exercise 18-D	316
	Exercise 18-E	318
19	Opinion Letters	321
	A. Begin by addressing your client’s question or concern.	322
	B. Summarize the facts upon which your opinion is based.	324
	C. Explain the law and its application.	326
	D. Be objective.	328
	E. Adopt a style and tone appropriate for your reader.	329
	Exercise 19-A	331
	Exercise 19-B	331

Part E Briefs and Oral Argument

20	Elements of a Brief	335
	A. Caption or Title Page	337
	B. Table of Contents	338
	C. Table of Authorities Cited	338
	D. Opinions Below	339
	E. Jurisdiction	339
	F. Constitutional Provisions, Statutes, Regulations, and Rules Involved	340
	G. Standard of Review	340
	H. Introduction	341
	I. Questions Presented	341
	J. Statement of Facts	342
	1. Describe the facts from your client’s perspective.	347

2.	Vividly describe favorable emotional facts and neutralize your opponent’s emotional facts.	348
3.	Organize your statement to emphasize favorable facts and de-emphasize unfavorable facts.	348
K.	Summary of Argument	352
L.	Argument	352
M.	Conclusion	353
N.	Appendices	354
	Exercise 20-A	355
	Exercise 20-B	355
21	Structure of an Argument	359
A.	Present your strongest issues, sub-issues, and arguments first.	360
B.	When issues are of equal strength, present the most significant issues first.	362
C.	Present your client’s position on each issue or sub-issue before answering counterarguments.	364
D.	Use point headings.	367
1.	State your legal conclusions and the basic reasons for these conclusions.	368
2.	Structure point headings to be both specific and readable.	370
3.	Place headings at logical points in your brief.	371
	Exercise 21-A	374
	Exercise 21-B	375
	Exercise 21-C	377
22	Persuasive Writing Techniques	379
A.	Be professional and honest.	379
1.	Maintain a professional tone and manner.	380
2.	Be honest about the law and the facts.	381
B.	Fully argue your client’s position.	384
1.	Emphasize helpful facts and de-emphasize unhelpful facts.	385
2.	Use policy arguments to support your legal analysis.	387
C.	Present arguments from your client’s point of view.	388
1.	Emphasize the correctness of your client’s position.	388
2.	Present the law from your client’s point of view.	390
3.	State your client’s position so that it appears objective.	391
D.	Craft sentences and choose words to persuade.	392
1.	Write positive assertions rather than negative ones.	393

2.	Use placement of words, phrases, and sentences to emphasize or minimize points.	393
3.	Use short sentences for emphasis.	395
4.	Be subtle rather than openly manipulative.	395
	Exercise 22-A	397
	Exercise 22-B	397
23	Write to Your Audience	399
A.	Briefs to a Trial Court	400
1.	Focus more on the applicability of legal rules than on policy.	405
2.	Emphasize that fairness requires a decision in your client's favor.	407
3.	Be brief.	409
4.	Write for the court.	412
B.	Briefs to an Appellate Court	414
1.	Focus on the claimed errors of the lower court.	415
2.	Base your argument on the appropriate standard of review.	417
3.	Emphasize that a decision in your client's favor would further the policies underlying the law.	419
4.	Explain how a decision in your client's favor would foster harmony or consistency in the law.	421
	Exercise 23-A	423
	Exercise 23-B	423
	Exercise 23-C	423
	Exercise 23-D	423
	Exercise 23-E	424
24	Preparing and Presenting an Oral Argument	425
A.	Preparing for Oral Argument	426
1.	Know your case.	427
2.	Know your audience.	427
3.	Plan within the court's time limit for oral argument.	428
B.	Crafting the Substance of Your Argument	429
1.	Develop a theme when appropriate.	429
2.	Select for presentation your strongest and most essential arguments.	431
3.	Plan and practice your argument.	433
C.	Presenting an Oral Argument	436
1.	Begin with a strong opening.	436
2.	Make your basic arguments as simple and direct as the material allows.	439

3.	Make effective use of questions.	440
4.	Manage your time.	446
5.	Present your argument in a professional manner.	447
	a. Courtroom etiquette	447
	b. Physical techniques	448
	c. Vocal techniques	448
6.	Close with confidence.	449
7.	Use rebuttal time effectively.	451
	Exercise 24-A	454
	Exercise 24-B	454
	Exercise 24-C	454
	Exercise 24-D	454
	Exercise 24-E	455

Appendices

Appendix A	Email Responses Concerning Tyler’s Possible Fraud Claim	461
Appendix B	Summary-of-the-Law Memos Concerning Tyler’s Possible Fraud Claim	467
Appendix C	Analytical Memorandum Concerning Tyler’s Possible Fraud Claim	473
Appendix D	Opinion Letter to Tyler	483
Appendix E	Defendant’s Brief to the Trial Court	487
Appendix F	Plaintiff’s Brief to the Trial Court	495
Appendix G	Trial Court’s Decision	501
Appendix H	Appellant’s Brief	507
Appendix I	Appellee’s Brief	521
	Selected Resources on Style and Grammar	533
Bibliography	Sources of Law	535
Index		545