

Dr.Dee and Vogue Dental studios support TGA regulatory changes for medical devices.

As part of our philosophy and commitment towards responsible aesthetics, Vogue Dental Studios and Dr. Dee have commended the regulatory changes by TGA in the medical devices section. You will find our website, social media and other advertisement platforms have gone through/going through minor to major changes. As part of these changes, you may find some of your favourite contents temporarily/permanently missing. Thank you for understanding our process to excel with our compliance.

Throughout our existence, we have worked hard in staying transparent, compliant and informative with our advertisements and social media contents.

TGA's regulatory codes in the area of personalised medical devices in relation to the dental industry have rightfully gone through major changes and come into effect from June 22. There are transitional arrangements for the dental industry until 1st Nov 2024. We have gone through self-initiated audits and regulatory compliance checks through regulatory legal consultants and working closely with AHPRA, ADA and now TGA to stay on top of compliance while bringing useful information and compliant advertisements. The new TGA reclassifications and codes are elaborate and complex. As these are recent changes, the interpretation of these codes by our industry consulting experts are currently under progress. As and when we receive official advice, we are updating our content and advertisement to reflect the same.

In the meantime, please feel free to email us if you have questions, comments, or complaints to info@voguedentalstudios.com.au