212 AVAILABILITY OF SERVICE

- A. Subject to transmission, electrical, atmospheric and like limitations, continuous service is available to stations equipped for service. The foregoing is based on the assumption that a mobile station is continuously within range of a radio terminal through which such service is furnished.
- B. The customer agrees that notwithstanding satisfactory tests in advance of installation, the Company cannot guarantee satisfactory permanent two-way transmission and that should transmission to or from the customer's station subsequently prove unsatisfactory in the Company's judgment, the Company may terminate the service.
- C. The Company shall not be responsible for assigning radio frequencies, and because these frequencies are assigned by the Department of Communications of the Government of Canada on a shared basis, the Company shall not be responsible for interference from any other system.
