

OSCAR'S BIG WEEK

FEB
Nº3

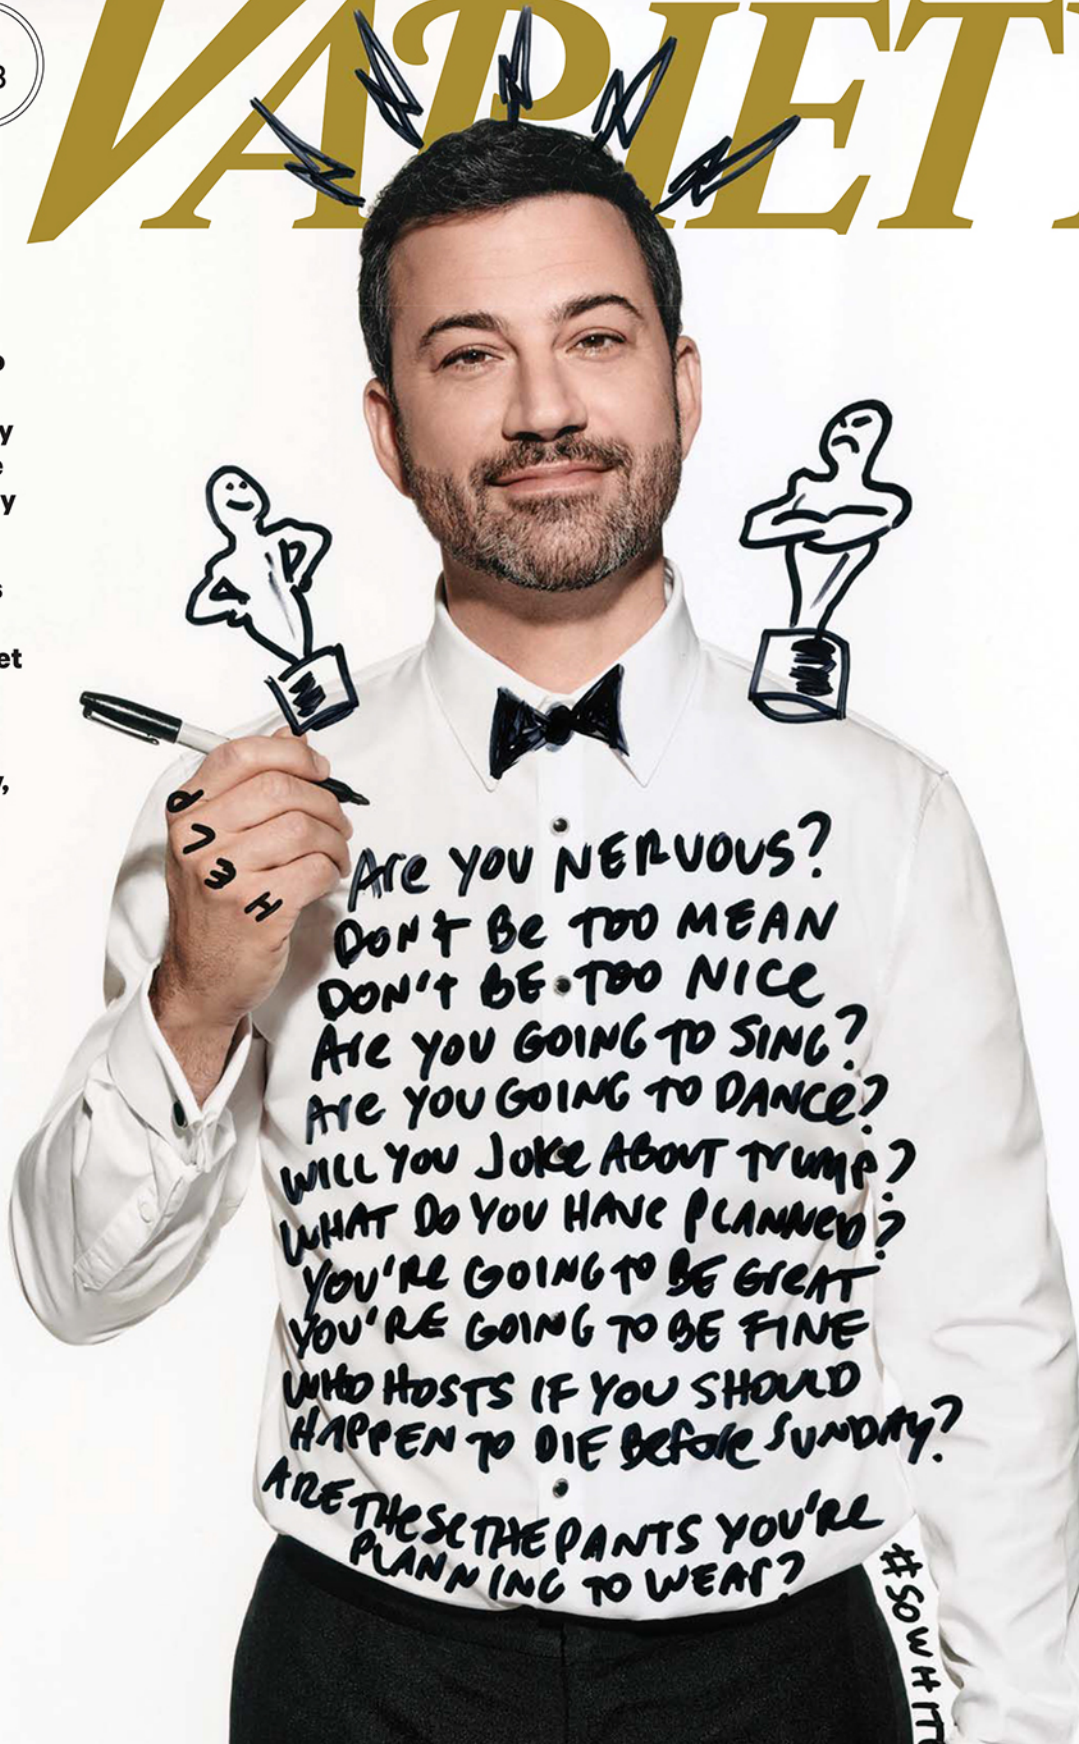

VARIETY

Inside

Still too white:
Diversity and the Academy

Politics on the red carpet

Where to party, where to chill

WHAT, ME WORRY?

The doodles and doubts of first-time Oscar host Jimmy Kimmel

By Ramin Setoodeh

THE SKIN YOU'RE IN

Stars and civilians alike can achieve ceremony-ready complexions

STORY BY Sophia Kercher

You don't have to be a celebrity to get all-star treatment. The following beauty destinations are devoted to primping and pampering guests, whether your name ends in Streep or not.

THE PENINSULA BEVERLY HILLS 1

Spa offers 15 results-driven services from personal training to face-firming facials during Oscar week, and each treatment comes with a flute of champagne along with a monogrammed bathrobe to make guests feel like gold.

CURE SALON AND SPA

Cure boasts locations in Malibu and West Hollywood. Cure's Dr. Lisa Benya has treated the skin of clients Eddie Redmayne, Julianne Moore, and Anna Kendrick. Stars return for her attentive touch as well as Cure's paparazzi-free entrances and exits. Benya says one of her most popular skincare treatments is a combination of a HydraFacial with oxygen and Glys-al (a serum with similar benefits of a skin-renewing chemical peel but without the peeling).

LOS ANGELES' RITZ-CARLTON SPA

The posh spa features a seasonal 80-minute Red Carpet Ready facial with deep cleansing, a lifting mask, non-surgical face contouring, and a relaxing massage to give spa-goers an award-worthy glow.

MARA LEVARRE BEAUTY

Pasadena-based aesthetician and makeup artist Mara Levarre has beautified red carpet regulars Viola Davis, Mariah Carey, and John Slattery. To prep her clients' skin for makeup she carries glycolic pads from the California-based Sonage Skincare.

ONE SPA 2

at Shutters on the Beach in Santa Monica offers its mineral-rich Gold Resurfacing Omorovicza facial, which promises to detoxify and cleanse skin — and leave guests feeling luxe.

THE BEVERLY HILTON 3

The hotel's Aqua Star Spa is home to a revamped Red Carpet Ready facial. The treatment features the Allison Janney-and-Mindy Kaling approved Babor skincare products for a VIP experience resulting in a fresh and dewy look.

CLOCKWISE FROM TOP: RYAN FORBES/THE PENINSULA BEVERLY HILLS; COURTESY OF SHUTTERS ON THE BEACH; PETRA RAJNICOVA/THE BEVERLY HILTON; ANDY RAIN/PAIREX/SHUTTERSTOCK

