Teamwork launches Bandwidth: A free virtual summit for agencies

Kicking off June 22 the event is made for agencies looking to grow, scale, and get profitable in the “new normal.”

BOSTON, June 1, 2022 – Teamwork, the only scalable project management platform built specifically for client work, today launched its first-ever virtual event, Bandwidth. The one-day event will provide attendees the opportunity to hear first-hand from fellow agency owners, operations experts, and project management pros about the changes they need to make to get their bandwidth back and get profitable post-pandemic.

“With The Great Resignation upon us and burnout more prevalent than ever before, running an agency today is far from easy,” says Peter Coppinger, Co-founder and CEO, Teamwork. “We built our platform to solve the challenges we faced running our own agency and know that profitability comes down to how well agencies operate. We couldn’t be more excited to help agencies overcome what’s holding them back with Bandwidth.”

Bandwidth will feature New York Times bestselling author and personal development expert Gary John Bishop as keynote, along with thought leadership sessions, panels, fireside chats, and the opportunity to network and build community with others who work in an agency or have a client-work focus.

Additional Bandwidth speakers and session topics include:

Teamwork created Bandwidth with busy client-services-focused businesses in mind, strategically choosing to host the quick and engaging event online and capping it at four hours.

“Bandwidth is designed to help agency owners that struggle with efficiency and profitability in today's climate. We know agencies are busy, so we’ve done the leg work, gathered the experts, and are ready to share content and customer stories that are useful to agencies and inspire the changes necessary to succeed,” says Tara Roberson, Chief Marketing Officer, Teamwork.

Bandwidth kicks off on June 22.
