

Vishandel Klooster went live in 4 months with Aptean Food & Beverage ERP Foodware Edition

Industry

Food & Beverage

Challenges

- » In need of a proper product tracing system
- » Very specific customer requirements

Benefits

- » Better management of Vishandel Klooster's processes
- » Notable increase in efficiency
- » Great collaborative effort between the two parties

Fish retailer Vishandel Klooster the Netherlands is an Aptean client specializing in smoking, filleting and processing of eel, mackerel, salmon, herring and trout. As a supplier of daily fresh food, Vishandel Klooster has to deal with the very specific customer requirements, which in turn means they have very specific needs for their ERP system. Jac Tijssen and Milou Klooster talk about the added value of Aptean Food & Beverage ERP Foodware Edition solution and the pleasant collaboration between Vishandel Klooster and Aptean.

Jac Tijssen, Commercial Director at Vishandel Klooster, says they have been looking for a proper product tracing system that could benefit the company in several ways. "Vishandel Klooster was looking for easy insights based on proper reports and sound financial overviews. In addition, it is in the customer's interest that we supply correct SSCC labels, and also utilizing the EDI system in the Aptean package is important to us."

Increase in efficiency thanks to Aptean Food & Beverage ERP

Vishandel Klooster has better management of their processes thanks to the company-wide ERP solution supplied by Aptean, consisting of Microsoft Dynamics in combination with Aptean Food & Beverage ERP. Jac Tijssen explains the added value of choosing this solution: "The added value of the package is a notable increase in efficiency; everyone is clearly and demonstrably working with the package within their scope. This results in a complete overview and will eventually lead to a clear financial picture."

Quick implementation, live in 4 months

The implementation of the system was completed within 4 months by the combined Aptean and Vishandel Klooster project team. Milou Klooster, IT Manager at Vishandel Klooster, is excited: “The implementation was a wonderful collaborative effort with Aptean, we worked well together. Everyone knew what they had to do, their specific tasks, which resulted in a quick and efficient schedule for go-live. This meant we also made quick improvements business-wise.”

The proper foundation for continued automation

Thanks to the support provided by Aptean during the entire project, a proper foundation for continued automation within the company has been created. Milou Klooster says: “Our goal for this project was to digitize everything, from the order processing system to the production area. We selected Aptean to aid us in this process because they are specialized in this type of work in the food industry. They were able to give clear recommendations on which steps to take in which order. Aptean continues to help us complete stages of automation and enables us to expand in order to be able to grow.”

Aptean is the perfect partner

Vishandel Klooster is now completely future-proof, thanks to Aptean and their Food & Beverage ERP. Jac Tijssen concludes: "During the picking process we evaluated Aptean as a partner. Mostly because they are already working in the food industry and have several other fish industry clients, Aptean was the perfect partner for us."
