

ABOUT ELANCO

Founded in 1954 as a division of Eli Lilly and Company, Elanco Animal Health today is a purpose-driven organization. Our people have a deep conviction for achieving our purpose of Food and Companionship Enriching Life that shows through in everything we do. Our nearly 6,250 employees work with our customers to raise awareness about global food security and celebrate and support the human-animal bond. We believe in One Health, the concept that by improving the health and welfare of animals we can improve the health and wellbeing of people and the planet. With headquarters in Greenfield, Indiana, US, we provide comprehensive products and knowledge services to improve animal health and food-animal production. We are proud of our heritage of scientific rigor, quality products and commitment to our people and our customers. Elanco has helped shape the lives of animals and their human companions for more than half a century and we are humbled by the global challenges ahead.
