Meet & Greet:

A few forces shaping Corpay Sydney

With over 14 years in the industry, Nick's journey reflects the evolution of FX itself - from cold calling and building client portfolios to leading the largest Corpay dealing desk across APAC from Sydney.

Today, as State Manager, Nick leads a team of corporate dealers through continuing market volatility. His approach is grounded in discipline; reinforcing strategy, staying consistent in process, and blocking out short-term noise to remain focused on long-term outcomes.

While many in the market focus on data releases and central bank moves, Nick looks at where institutional capital is flowing to understand deeper trends.

For corporates, he highlights a common risk - not volatility itself, but being underprepared for it, often through under-hedging or focusing too heavily on entry points rather than overall strategy.

Nick Xiradis,
State Dealing
Manager

Manu Gupta, Head of Compliance, APAC

From starting in accounting to leading compliance across multiple APAC jurisdictions, Manu's journey is rooted in discipline and growth.

His philosophy: Invest in people, build strong teams, and stay curious.

He describes Sydney as a high-performing, collaborative team with an entrepreneurial edge—built on energy, pace, and ambition.

A Day with Loren Ruru, Office Manager

From managing leadership schedules to running events and keeping the office humming, Loren is at the heart of Sydney operations. He is in the office 5 days a week. His day begins with opening the office and making sure all the essentials are fully stocked. He keeps the office running smoothly.

“They made me feel like part of the team straightaway.”

Whether it's coordinating leadership priorities or organising a 38-floor evacuation drill Loren keeps everything—and everyone—moving.

Hear It From The People Who Power Sydney

Nick's advice to budding dealers entering the industry:

"It's definitely about building a brand for yourself internally in this industry".

Creating a brand for yourself is extremely important in this industry, everyone knows each other. The industry is quite compact. Word spreads. Customers get to see you – it deepens trust and honesty.

Helena Eastham, Strategic Account Manager

Builds deep relationships with top clients through honest, insight-led conversations.

"The most valuable insights don't come from data – they come from honest conversations."

Emma van Reesema, Business Development Manager

From marketing in EMEA to business development in Sydney, Emma blends strategy with storytelling in every client interaction.

Her Sydney in one line?

Fresh seafood, strong relationships, and simple moments done right.

"Sometimes, it's just fish and chips on the beach."

Business in Sydney

- Strategy meets relationships
- Markets meet real conversations
- Global thinking, local connection

From navigating FX risk to building long-term partnerships, Sydney is where complexity is managed with clarity.

Sydney, Beyond Work

From Mardi Gras to Lunar New Year, the city's diversity shapes both culture and business, making it vibrant, inclusive, and globally connected.
