

Workhuman Reporting

A self-service solution to analyzing and sharing recognition program activity data

Meet Workhuman Reporting.

Turn data into action with Workhuman® Reporting. Using powerful, built-in, and fully self-service business intelligence functionality, you can analyze and visualize your recognition program data and easily share it with teammates companywide.

Workhuman Reporting gives you control over your data so you can:

Customize reports, share them with specific teams and groups, and control which data users can view based on your criteria.

Give everyone access to on-demand, timely data and reports, any time.

Imagine what you could do with:

Advanced design capabilities.

Design, create, and customize reports and dashboards using your unique recognition program data.

A collaborative experience.

Build reports with colleagues, then publish and share with any stakeholders who need them.

Easy-to-use templates.

Leverage simple templates so you have more time to customize and deliver the best reports possible.

“The tools that Workhuman provided us in terms of their analytics is great. We could use that data to help support the movement, make sure that we were making measurable outcomes.”

Decentralize your recognition data.

Every critical decision should be backed by data, but accessibility to that data is often a frustrating challenge. When one team or person owns data, they often become overwhelmed with requests and sow frustration among leaders and managers who lack the information they need to make critical decisions.

Using Workhuman Reporting within your Social Recognition[®] program, you can enhance the relevance of recognition program data, increase accessibility to and use of that data, and facilitate decision-making across the business.
