

Indigenous Literacy Day

Team Challenge

This year, Indigenous Literacy Day will be celebrating the theme, ‘Strength in Our Stories. For Now, and Future Generations’.

Reading books from First Nations authors helps us all to understand Australia’s collective history and appreciate the cultural richness of stories from some of the most ancient and original storytellers. We challenge you and your team to complete as many of our tasks as you can!

- Take an unidentified photo of someone reading a book by a First Nations creator outside
- Write a short story, only a paragraph or two, starting with “The kookaburra told me....”
- In a team, choose a native Australian animal and write a short poem about the animal by writing one line at a time
- Design a poster for your favourite First Nations book
- Read a book by a First Nations Creator
- Read a dreamtime story to someone- child read to an adult, or an adult read to a child

Bonus point activity- Tell us what your favourite dreamtime story is and tell us why it’s your favourite.

Need some inspo? For book recommendations:

Indigenous Literacy Foundation

Magabala Books

To connect with storytelling:

Dreamy | Mindful stories from First Nations Storytellers

Name:

Postal address:

Share your challenges with us to win a book pack for your office! Take a snap and send to hookintobooks@lwb.org.au

