1. Extremely loud and incredibly close Jonathan Safran Foer

In a vase in a closet, years after his father died in 9/11, nine-year-old Oskar discovers a key... His father’s key. But which of New York’s 162 million locks does it open? So begins a quest that takes Oskar - inventor, letter-writer and amateur detective - across New York’s five boroughs and into the jumbled lives of friends, relatives and complete strangers. He inches ever nearer to the heart of a family mystery that stretches back fifty years. But will it take him any closer to, or even further from, his lost father?

2. Frankly in love
   David Yoon

Frank loves Joy. Joy loves Frank. That’s what they tell their parents... Frank’s parents emigrated from Korea, and have one big rule for Frank - he must only date Korean girls. So, when Frank falls for Brit, who is smart, beautiful and white, he needs a plan. His friend Joy Song is in the same boat and so they make a pact: they’ll pretend to date each other in order to gain their freedom. But, they soon discover that the only thing more complicated than pretending to be in love, is actually falling in love.

3. Pig-heart boy
   Malorie Blackman

All Cameron wants is a ‘normal’ life. But not every thirteen-year-old desperately needs a new heart because theirs doesn’t work properly. Finally, one doctor offers hope. Cameron could take part in a new and risky procedure involving the transplant of a pig’s heart into his human body. While Cameron comes to terms with the idea, he finds the world around him is much less accepting. Surely everyone will understand that it’s better to have a pig’s heart that works than a human heart that doesn’t?

1. Take me with you when you go
David Levithan, Jennifer Niven

Ezra wakes up one day to find his sister gone. No note, no sign, nothing but an email address hidden somewhere only he would find it. Escaping their toxic home life, Bea finds herself alone in a new city - without friends or a real plan - chasing someone who might not even want to be found. As things unravel at home for Ezra, Bea confronts secrets about their past that will forever change the way they think about their family.

2. Percy Jackson and the lightning thief
Rick Riordan

Look, I didn’t want to be a half-blood. I never asked to be the son of a Greek God. I was just a normal kid, going to school, playing basketball, skateboarding. The usual. Until I accidentally vaporized my maths teacher. Now I spend my time fighting with swords, battling monsters with my friends, and generally trying to stay alive. This is the one where Zeus, God of the Sky, thinks I’ve stolen his lightning bolt - and making Zeus angry is a very bad idea. Can Percy find the lightning bolt before a fully-fledged war of the Gods erupts?

3. Bog child
Siobhan Dowd

Digging for peat in the mountain with his Uncle Tally, Fergus finds the body of a child, and it looks like she’s been murdered. As Fergus tries to make sense of the mad world around him - his brother on hunger-strike in prison, his growing feelings for Cora, his parents arguing over the Troubles, and him in it up to the neck, blackmailed into acting as courier to God knows what, a little voice comes to him in his dreams, and the mystery of the bog child unfurls.

Bog Child
This is a beautifully written coming-of-age tale, which deals with themes of mortality, peace and sacrifice. Fergus is an immensely likeable character whose story, along with that of the bog child, will long stay with those who read it.

which leads the police to question the cottage’s former owner - Saffy’s grandmother, Rose. Rose’s Alzheimer’s means she can’t help the police, but it is clear she remembers something.
Meanwhile, Saffy fears she and the

3. Generation A
Douglas Coupland

In the near future bees are extinct - until five unconnected individuals, in different parts of the world, are stung. They are immediately snatched up by ominous figures in suits, interrogated separately in neutral ikea-like chambers, and then released as 15-minute-celebrities into a world driven almost entirely by the internet.
A charismatic scientist with dubious motives eventually brings the quintet together, and their shared experience unites them in a way they could never have imagined.

The hit BBC series Sherlock has introduced a whole new generation of fans to Arthur Conan Doyle’s legendary detective. In this unique collection, Sherlock co-creators Steven Moffat and Mark Gatiss have selected their all-time favourite Sherlock Holmes adventures.
Each of the tales, from Sherlock’s first appearance in A Study in Scarlet to the classic Adventure of The Speckled Band, is a potent mix of murder, suspense, and cryptic clues. Sherlock Holmes provided a template for detective stories we still follow today.

Sherlock

The whole of the canon is covered, from the very first novel ‘A Study In Scarlet’ through to the very late ‘The Dying Detective’. Most of the really famous stories are included: ‘The Sign of Four’, ‘The Red-Headed League’, ‘The Final Problem’ and ‘The Hound of the Baskervilles’ to name but four. All are introduced by a few words from Mark and Steven to give it a personal touch. It could be classed as ‘The Best of Sherlock Holmes’.
