Me and my friends
wanted to play soccer

While we were playing a famous football player came up to us

he asked us if we wanted to play soccer in a nearby castle

When we were there we saw that it wasn't a soccer field but a basketball field.

then he said that we needed to go because it was our turn to cook

We did a last round but when we kicked the ball flew and landed next to a snake and he wouldn't let us take our ball

Once upon a time there was a scientist named Rachel Green, and she lived in a huge castle in New York. When she was doing her job, she would listen to music. Her favourite artists were One Direction. She would never come out of her castle and the people who would walk by always heard weird noises. For year the scientist was working on a big, no not big, a huge project. Nobody else knew what the project was about, she kept it a secret.

All the kids were afraid to go by the castle or to enter the castle, they called it the horror castle. She had a pet that was an octopus, she called it the octopus Ross. She would experiment on Ross all the time. There was this one time when it all went wrong. It was the night of Halloween... That night there were a lot of noises and light coming out of the castle and the kids were really, really scared. They didn't even want to walk in the street of the castle.

It was a big night for Rachel, it was finally here but it went horribly wrong. She turned Ross into a monster! Ross escaped and for the first time in her life Rachel came out of her castle to look for Ross. She quickly grabbed her backpack packed with everything to catch him she hoped. But she couldn't find him anywhere, because he had turned into a man and she didn't know he could do that!

A few days had gone by and she still hadn't found Ross. The days after were hard, but after Halloween she washed her face in the evening and in the mirror she saw a man standing behind her! The man grabbed her, she screamed as loud as she could, but nobody could hear her. The man held her really tight and she passed out. A few days later she woke up and she had a ton of visions. She decided to paint the visions she had about Ross, a strange man and one about herself as a child! After a month she had she had loads of paintings in the castle. Then she had a vision about herself but Ross was in her! Then she realized she was brainwashed by Ross, so she thought for days how she would fix this, but she always came to the same conclusion: she had to kill Ross.

And so it was, she grabbed a knife, sharpened it, and she stabbed herself and Ross too. Weirdly enough, only Ross was killed and not Rachel! So she quit science and experimenting and she painted every day, the whole day and she lived happily ever after.
