75% subsidy - Canada Emergency Wage Subsidy	NEW MEASURE – FURTHER DETAILS TO COME <ul style="list-style-type: none"> The government is proposing to provide eligible employers a temporary wage subsidy for a period of up to twelve weeks. The monthly subsidy would be equal to the greater of the following two amounts: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> 75% of the amount of “remuneration paid”, up to a maximum benefit of $847 per week; The amount of “remuneration paid”, up to a maximum of $847 per week; or 75% of the employee’s pre-crisis weekly earnings, whichever is less. This subsidy would be available to employers who see at least 30% reduction of their gross revenues for 2020 compared to the 2019 revenues for the calendar month (March, April, May) in which the application period begins. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> This measure is retroactive to March 15, 2020. This subsidy would apply regardless of the number of employees. There does not appear to be a general limit on the total amount of subsidy that an eligible employer could apply for. The subsidy received by an employer would be considered government assistance and be included in the employers taxable income. Eligible employers would include : <ul style="list-style-type: none"> individuals; taxable corporations; NPOs; registered charities; partnerships of which all members are eligible employers; But does not include public organizations (e.g., municipalities and local governments, Crown corporations, public universities, colleges, schools and hospitals). 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The application can be filled in My business account on the CRA site or online. Employers must keep records to demonstrate the reduction of their arm's length income and the compensation paid to employees. More information on the application process will be available soon. Certification In the application, the employer must certify the decrease in income for the application period. https://www.canada.ca/en/department-finance/news/2020/04/the-canada-emergency-wage-subsidy.html

Longer-term income support for workers	The Canada Emergency Response Benefit (CERB) replaces and combines the previously announced Emergency Care Benefit and Emergency Support Benefit. This program offers a taxable benefit of $500 per week for a maximum of 16 weeks to workers who have lost their income due to COVID-19.	The CERB covers Canadians who: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • are 15 years of age or older and reside in Canada; • have stopped working because of COVID-19 and have not voluntarily left their employment; • have earned at least $5,000 of income in 2019 or within 12 months of the date of application; • are, or expect to be, without employment or self-employment income for at least 14 consecutive days in the initial four-week period. For the following benefit periods, they expect no employment income. • It was announced on April 5th that students will not be eligible for the CERB. Targeted measures for students will soon be announced. • In any case, all Canadians who have ceased working due to COVID-19, whether they are EI-eligible or not, would have access to the CERB.	You can request the new Canada Emergency Response Benefit via My Account or by calling the automated phone line starting April 6, 2020. CERB payments should begin within 10 days of application, and will be made every four weeks from March 15, 2020 to October 3, 2020. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Those who are already receiving EI regular and sickness benefits will continue to receive their benefits and should not apply to the CERB. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> If their EI benefits end before October 3, 2020, they could apply for the CERB once their EI benefits cease, if they are unable to return to work due to COVID-19. • Those who have already applied for EI and whose application has not yet been processed do not need to reapply. • Those who are eligible for EI regular and sickness benefits may still be able to access their normal EI benefits, if still unemployed, after the 16-week period covered by the CERB. EI eligible Canadians who have lost their jobs can continue to apply for EI here. To find out more about this measure see the CRA website, and to find out the interaction between the various measures, see page 12.

Interaction between CERB, supplementary unemployment benefit (SUB), 75% wage subsidy and 10% wage subsidy

- At this time, it appears that any benefit received under the Temporary Wage Subsidy (10%) reduces the amount that can be claimed under the Canada Emergency Wage Subsidy (75%).
- In addition, for a particular employee, an employer cannot claim the Canada Emergency Wage Subsidy (75%) for the remuneration paid in a week that is part of the application period for which the employee is eligible for the CERB. Further details are expected.
- Employers who are not eligible for the Canada Emergency Wage Subsidy (75%) may be eligible for the Temporary Wage Subsidy (10%). This would be the case if the employer in question did not see a drop of at least 30% of their gross “revenues” for 2020 over 2019 for a given calendar month (March, April, May).
- Employers can use a Supplementary unemployment benefit Program (SUBP) plan to increase weekly income of their employees who are unemployed due to a temporary stoppage of work, training, illness or quarantine. Payments made under a SUB plan registered with Service Canada are not considered as remuneration and are not deducted from an employees' EI benefits. These amounts do not reduce a taxpayer's entitlement to the CERB.
- Assistance received under either Canada Emergency Wage Subsidy (75%) or Temporary Wage Subsidy (10%) would reduce the amount of remuneration eligible for other federal tax credits calculated on the same remuneration.

Flexibility for income tax filings and payments

The CRA will allow all businesses to defer the filing of T2 returns for the current taxation year that were due after March 18, 2020 to June 1st, 2020.

The CRA defers to September 1st 2020 the payment of installments and income tax for the current tax year that become due on or after March 18, 2020 and before September 2020.

- This relief would apply to the tax balance payable, as well as installment payments, under Part I of the Income Tax Act. No interest or penalty will apply to these amounts during this period.

All businesses can defer until June 30, 2020, any GST/HST remittances that become owing on or after March 27, 2020 and before June 2020 without interest or penalty. However, the filing deadline for these returns does not appear to be extended. The CRA will allow late filing until June 30, 2020, without interest or penalty.

- GST/QST relief is available to filers who were required to remit amounts collected:
 - monthly for the February, March and April 2020 reporting periods;
 - quarterly for the period covering January, February and March 2020;
 - annually if the period ended in March, April or May 2020.

With respect to customs duties, the due dates for account statements and payment of these fees for March, April and May are extended to June 30, 2020. The CBSA will also temporarily suspend trade compliance activity interaction with importers/exporters and their representatives until April 20, 2020 (i.e. all deadlines imposed in connection with a customs import verification will be automatically extended by a period of time equivalent to the period of suspension. Given the circumstances, the length of this suspension period may be re-evaluated at a later date.)

The CBSA will continue to process applications for the duties relief program, and B2 requests for adjustments, which are unaffected by this temporary suspension. Importers that need information about their particular accounting and payment obligations may contact CBSA for more details.

Administrative application

- No action is required. The new deadlines and administrative practices apply automatically.
- When the business expects to receive a tax or input tax credit refund, KPMG recommends that the relevant returns be filed as soon as possible.
- In addition, the CRA has indicated that it will be flexible with respect to payment arrangements and will consider requests for relief of penalties and interest. To enter into a payment arrangement, visit the CRA's website.
- For the majority of businesses, the CRA will temporarily suspend audit interaction between taxpayers and representatives.

Flexibility for Individuals – other tax and economic measures

Tax measures

The CRA will defer the filing deadline for the 2019 T1 tax returns of individuals (to June 1, 2020) and certain T3 trusts returns (to May 1st, 2020 for trusts with a taxation year ending on December 31, 2019).

The CRA will allow all taxpayers to defer to September 1st 2020 the payment of any income tax amounts that become owing on or after March 18, 2020, and before September 2020.

- This relief would apply to tax balances due, as well as instalments, under Part I of the Income Tax Act. No interest or penalties will accumulate on these amounts during this period.

Administrative application

- No action necessary. The new filing and payment deadlines apply automatically.
- However, when the individual expects to receive a tax refund, KPMG recommends that the tax return be filed as soon as possible.

Other economic measures

Repayment of student loans is suspended without interest for 6 months from March 30, 2020.

The Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation (CMHC) and other mortgage insurers offer tools to lenders that can assist homeowners who may be experiencing financial difficulty. These include payment deferral, loan re-amortization, capitalization of outstanding interest arrears and other eligible expenses, and special payment arrangements.

Reduce the minimum withdrawals from Registered Retirement Income Funds (RRIFs) by 25% for the 2020 taxation year. This reduction also applies to the minimum amount under the money purchase provisions of Registered Pension Plans.

Flexibility for income tax filings and payments

Companies

The filing of any income tax returns (CO-17) that are due from March 17, 2020 to May 31, 2020 is deferred to June 1st, 2020. The payment of the 2019 income tax amounts that become due on or after March 17 and before September 2020 is deferred to September 1st, 2020.

This relief would apply to tax balances and provincial instalments payable. No interest or penalty will apply to these amounts during this period.

Clarification is expected for the deadlines and terms of payments of the deferred amounts.

GST/QST remittances are extended until June 30, 2020. The filing deadline for these returns is not extended at this time. However, Revenu Québec will allow late filing until June 30, 2020, without any interest or penalty.

- Note that the delay for remitting other indirect taxes such as payroll and fuel tax, remain unchanged and is not subject to administrative relief.

Individuals

The deadline for filing the 2019 income tax return (TP1) and payment of tax is harmonized with the federal government (i.e. the filing is deferred to June 1st (June 15th if in business) and the payment is deferred to September 1st). Payment of QPP, QPIP, HSF and RAMQ contributions are also deferred to September 1st, 2020.

Trusts

The filing of a trust income tax return for the current taxation year (TP646, T3) is deferred to May 1st, 2020. Payment of income tax and installment payments that become due on or after March 17, 2020 and before September 2020 is deferred to September 1st.

Partnerships

Partnerships that are required to file their information return (TP600, T5013) by March 31, 2020, will have until May 1, 2020 to do so. If all members are corporations, when the deadline for filing this return would otherwise be after March 16, 2020 but before May 1st, 2020, this date is also extended to May 1st, 2020.

Administrative application

- No action is required. The application of new production and payment deadlines and new administrative practices is automatic.
- Where the individual, trust or business expects to receive a tax or an input tax refund, KPMG recommends that the relevant tax return be filed as soon as possible.
- In addition, tax verification and collection activities will be temporarily suspended. Revenu Québec also indicated that it would be flexible with respect to payment agreements.
