Talk to your employer

Are you an auditor or aspiring auditor? Talk to your employer about this.

Did you know over 80% of AAPC conference attendees' costs are covered by their employers? Many employers have found it beneficial to their business to send employees to AUDITCON, a virtual-only conference for beginners and working pros alike, with separate tracks for each. Attendees return, not just with best practices, but the knowhow to apply them effectively.

Tips to get your employer on board:

1 Be prepared. We'll be announcing the agenda soon. Review it and highlight sessions that complement your skills and/or your employer's needs.

2 Focus on continuing education. Tell your supervisor that this 2-day virtual event is a great way for you to earn CEUs, along with gaining insight on best practices from leading experts in the industry.

3 Don't be afraid to ask. Educate your supervisor what you'll take away from the conference and how it will help you and your team. Mention that AUDITCON is a virtual-only conference, so there are no hotel or travel bills — just valuable learning that can translate to your employer's bottom line.

> The experience was amazing. Hopefully my employer will continue to pay for my attendance or partially pay for it. The knowledge gained at this conference can be shared with coders to help improve their coding and lessen their apprehension on being audited.
