

Want to collaborate with us?

We want to make it easy for any institution or community group to share their records.

If you have content that is related to the Pacific please get in touch with us. Our team will work with you to make your content visible and accessible.

It's free to be part of our project and means:

- More people will discover your content and can view it alongside all of our content providers.
- Pacific communities can connect with you, your collections, and the items of cultural heritage you hold.

Telling your story

If you have knowledge, stories, memories, and experiences of the collections on our website, try out our 'user contribution' feature. This allows you to share your words alongside the records from institutions and create a new way for Pacific Island people to explore these worlds.

User contributions

Kindergarten by the Sugar Mill

"I used to go to the kindergarten by the Lautoka Sugar Mill back in the 90s. When the mill was in production, I remember a sweet smell coming from the mill."

Memories of Ipukarea

"This video reminds of my home in the Cook islands. We use to eat the flowers of the Pegoia, it has a salty taste. My aunty Tangi who i use to live with, we use to pick the petals and eat it. We were supposed to be weeding the garden but end up eating the flower petals."

cultural heritage of the Pacific.

Empowering people in and of the Pacific Islands to discover and explore items of cultural heritage held in collections around the world.

Who we are

Digitalpasifik.org is funded by the Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade in Australia and implemented by the National Library of New Zealand and the National Library of Australia.

Our website allows Pacific content to be visible and accessible for those wanting to research, learn, and connect with Pacific items that they might not know exist.

Our website is a bridge between the world of cultural heritage institutions and Pacific communities that want to reconnect with their heritage and history.

What we do

We collaborate with content providers and Pacific communities that have digitised content to make their records visible and accessible.

We support Pacific providers to enable their collections to be seen alongside other global institutions.

By working alongside Pacific communities, we highlight them and their knowledge alongside these records.
