Dear Google,

We have recently noticed that several pages on our website <https://www.kurrabagroup.exposed/> have been removed from the Google index in Australia. Specifically our homepage <https://www.kurrabagroup.exposed/> has been removed.

We understand that some of the content might be problematic on the blog posts (but believe the entire site to be lawful); however, the home page itself should be restored immediately as there is no problematic or even potentially defamatory materials on the homepage.

What is the process to request re-consideration of removing the homepage URL: <https://www.kurrabagroup.exposed/> and any other URLs?
