Who is Lightcast?

Who is Lightcast?

Lightcast is the world's leading authority on job skills, workforce talent, & labor market dynamics.

We empower businesses, education providers, and governments to find the skills and talent they need, enabling workers to unlock new career opportunities.

WHO DO WE HELP?

We help staffing firms generate leads and qualify reqs.

We also help them with internal business planning by providing data for in-depth market research and market comparisons.

Similarly to how we help firms fill jobs for companies, we help businesses fill their own jobs by providing diversity, skills, career-pathing, wage, and talent supply data.

What does our data include?

Job Postings Analytics (JPA):

Data collected from hundreds of millions of job postings created by employers

Compensation Data:

Wage estimations based on wage data from government sources, supplemented with wage data advertised in job postings

Professional Profiles:

Public, self-reported information about individuals' city/state/nation of residence, job history, education history, and skills

Traditional Labor Market Information (LMI):

Industry, occupation, education, and demographics data from government sources (Bureau of Labor Statistics, US Census Bureau, etc.)

Skills

A collection of over 30,000 skills collected from hundreds of millions of job postings, resumes, and online profiles, helping people, employers, and educational programs speak a common language

Global Data

Industry, occupation, and profile data collected from various countries. Global data helps you compare markets across borders, determine where your company might expand, and understand the skills landscape
