visier

Mike has spent the last 23 years working for various HR software companies including PeopleSoft, Oracle, and now Visier. He started his career Educating customers, but quickly moved into Solution Consulting, advising companies on HR software purchases and deployment. Mike has worked with clients in every industry and has gained a deep understanding of HR processes and requirements across a wide variety of businesses. He now focuses on one of the hottest functions within HR, that of People Analytics, helping organizations understand the benefits and impact it can have on the business, when done well.
