

5 TIPS

FOR CREATING AND USING YOUR SUPERVISOR-TO-SUPERVISOR PEER NETWORK

1 Find a common platform

Create or join a group on your company's Slack, Teams, etc.; it can be easiest to get good engagement by meeting people where they already are.

Consider scheduling time for an internship supervisor coffee break to connect with other supervisors if your organization does not already host those kinds of meetings.

2 Ask questions

Peer networks can help to gain insight into situations that you and your peers have encountered and/or considered.

4 Share resources

Did you read an article that had good insights on supervising interns? Share it in the group!

3 Compare solutions to challenges

Offering your solutions and reading those of your peers can be helpful when approaching similar situations in the future.

5 Network

Like all other opportunities to connect with peers, don't forget to network and make lasting connections that can be helpful to you and your interns.
