

Apple Cinnamon Puree & Applesauce Pouches

Recall Nov. 16, 2023

Nov. 16: Elevated levels of lead, potentially causing acute toxicity, have been detected in certain apple cinnamon puree and applesauce products. Some kids got really sick eating certain brands of applesauce pouches, and now the FDA is pulling them off the shelves to keep everyone safe. Investigators believe the cinnamon is the source of the contamination. As of Nov. 16, 2023, there have been 34 reports of illness.

Products affected:

- WanaBana apple cinnamon fruit puree pouches (all lot codes and expiration dates): Sold nationally through multiple retailers including Amazon, Dollar Tree, and other online outlets.
- Schnucks brand cinnamon-flavored applesauce pouches and variety pack: Sold at Schnucks and Eatwell Markets grocery stores.
- Weis brand cinnamon applesauce pouches (specific lots of UPC 041497216123): sold at Weis grocery stores.

What to do if you have the product(s): If you've got any of these apple pouches at home, don't eat them or give them to anyone else. Toss them out or take them back to where you bought them to get your money back.
