

Repairer's Licence and Number Plates

Your business licence confirms your operation is partially or wholly a “repair garage.”

This enables you to purchase a Repairer's licence in conjunction with your Garage Vehicle Certificate (Garage Policy). This licence has a restricted use and the insurance provided by your Garage Policy for use of a vehicle with a Repairer's number plate attached is similarly restricted.

A Repairer's number plate

1. may be attached only to an unlicensed vehicle being driven, operated or towed on a highway for the purpose of repairing, testing or rendering a service incidental to the repairing or testing;

2. may be used only by the owner of the repair garage, or the owner's agent or employee;

3. may not be used by

- a partner, officer or employee on a vehicle which they own or lease,
- a customer, or
- an owner or an employee of another garage operation;

4. may not be used on

- a vehicle being operated for pleasure use (a vehicle may not be operated for any other purpose than as indicated in #1 above), or
- a vehicle not eligible to be registered and licensed for operation on a highway, including a vehicle whose status is salvage.

This outlines the purpose and restrictions applicable to the authorized use of a Repairer's number plate. Where it is used for its restricted purpose, insurance will be provided. Conversely, when the vehicle to which a Repairer's number plate is attached is used contrary to the authorized use of a Repairer's number plate, it may invalidate the insurance provided by your Garage Policy.
