agenda

who are we, and where are we?

why are eefa & newhab looking racial equity in particular?

breaking down racism--what is it, and how does it operate?

so let's talk about power

at	time to practice with concepts
	q&a and close
it. and

why racial equity?

"We start with RACE, the most taboo and "When you allow racial disparities and unreconciled American subject, so that when institutional inequity to impact one part of racial or other inequities surface we can the country, eventually its coming back to recognize, disrupt, and REBUILD." get everyone."

Michelle Molitor, The Equity Lab

Tim Wise, Author

what have we done? what are we finding out?

- Interviewed leads / partners in regions about their perceptions of EEFA's racial equity w
- A day long working meeting with the equi working group focused on getting on the same page about definitions, developing shared assessment of EEFA's racial equity work thus far and developing the agenda for the EEFA quarterly.
- Developed some preliminary tools including starting glossary in conjunction with equi working group members what is racial equity?

the condition where one's racial identity has no influence on how one fares in society. racial equity is one part of racial justice and must be addressed at the root causes and not just the manifestations. this includes the elimination of policies, practices, attitudes and cultural messages that reinforce differential outcomes by race.

(Equity in the Center)

a racial equity framework

Institutions interact to enforce negative differential treatment of Black and other POC & ensure different life outcomes

Personal

Intrapersonal - the messages I receive about myself

Interpersonal - racist interactions between people (think slurs, and hate speech

Structural

Institutional

Policies, practices & belief systems that are baked into the institutions that impact our lives (ed, healthcare etc)

Adapted from the Applied Research Center toolkit (RaceForward)

power

wait...wrong power...

A Regional Association of Grantmakers with Global Impact

what is this?

who decides?
who gives the power to decide?
how do we generate meaning?
what do we do when that is challenged?
how does this relate to systemic oppression?

so where does that leave advocacy organizations?

Advocacy and organizing and direct services, oh my...

advocacy - speaking or arguing on behalf of others

community organizing - coordinated, cooperative efforts carried out by local residents to achieve a common goal & promote the interests of their community

direct services - providing a service directly to people

at their best, advocacy, organizing and direct services work together to build community power, create policies that change people's material conditions and provide the direct services that the community articulates they want and need.

Advocates create campaigns primarily to get policies passed

Policies drafted, organized around, advocated for in ways that build power

Powerful campaigns are built that build power, advocate for and implement transformative policies and people's needs are met during the campaigns Organizing community with building power being the primary goal

Advocates create campaigns and get some input from people who receive services at organizations Organizing for power in partnershipo with direct services orgs who can help meet people's immediate needs

Providing direct services with the primary goal having people's immediate needs met

choice points

what is a choice point?

A choice point is a moment in time when it is possible to consciously choose whether to do something congruent or incongruent with your values. In terms of racial equity, a choice point provides an opportunity to do (or not do) something that is value aligned and moves the goal of racial equity forward.

Possible EEFA/ NEWHAB Choice

Points

- Campaign priorities
- Position on an issue
- Hiring/Firing
