WORKSHEET

Instructions: As you progress through the class, use the worksheets to apply what you've learned. I recommend you envision an environment that you know well and that is small enough for you to visualize. This could be your office, your apartment, a room in your home; all of these places would work great! As you progress, use the same environment for each worksheet.

Environment:

1. Confidentiality:

Think of some of the items in this environment that you need to keep confidential (personal documents, bills, parts of the house that children aren't allowed, dangerous tools, etc.):

2. Integrity:

Think of some of the items in this environment whose integrity needs to be preserved (personal records, settings on devices, entries in a checkbook, calendars, etc.):

3. Availability:

Think of some of the items in this environment that you need to be available at all times (personal electronics, heating and cooling systems, smart devices, automobiles, important data, etc.):
