

Our Incident Response and Claims Process

Digital risk is always active, so is our approach to claims response. Coalition's Active Insurance solution protects your organization before, during or after a cybersecurity incident. We monitor and mitigate threats ahead of time through Active Risk Assessment and Active Protection. But if the worst should happen and you experience an incident, we are here to help with our Active Response. Our Claims experts are always available to help.

We support you before, during, and after security incidents

Cyber incidents come in many forms — from ransomware, denial of service attacks, data breaches, social engineering, wire fraud, and technology failures. While each event is different, there are certain elements you can expect. Coalition is your partner in addressing digital risk before, during, and after an incident occurs.

What could be better than great claims handling? Claims prevention. Coalition works with insureds to mitigate incidents before they turn into claims. Here's how:

- Active Risk Assessment: Our personalized digital risk profile provides a near real-time report of an organization's risk exposures. For brokers, this shortens lengthy questionnaires and improves accuracy with pricing and underwriting — while saving time quoting.
- Active Protection: Policyholders receive continuous monitoring of their digital systems and business exposures. When new risks are discovered, policyholders — and brokers — receive personalized alerts to help them mitigate the potential threat.

- Active Response: If incidents do occur, Coalition's Claims team responds quickly to solve issues and resume critical business operations. Broad coverage backed by trusted reinsurance partners is there when you need it.

Businesses today face countless threats, regardless of their size or industry. Coalition's technology and partner ecosystem combine cybersecurity tools and threat intelligence to reduce the chance of an attack's success before the damage is done.
