

“You’re wiser than you think!”

Hii,

I think it’s about time I introduced myself to you with my real name – I’m George, but you may have previously known me by my nickname Greedy. I do really really love bananas, but I would prefer it if you called me George now.

You may have seen that I now look a little different to when we last met. It was a bit of shock for me too when it first happened, but I actually think it’s really cool now, I hope you do too!

Even though I look different to before, I’m still the same cheeky monkey at heart. I love to climb and do sports, breakdance and beatbox and I even have a new super skill which I’ll tell you more about soon.

We’ve been working really hard at Seaside Squad Bootcamp, training for our next adventure. We can’t wait for you to join in the fun when you’re next here!

I hope you’re super excited for your next visit! Make sure you come and say hi and I can show you my brand new look!

George

