

Policy on Preservation and Archival of Documents

1. PREAMBLE:

In India, regulatory framework as laid down under the Securities and Exchange Board of India (Listing Obligations and Disclosure Requirements) Regulations, 2015 requires the companies to put in place policy framework for preservation and archival of documents. Accordingly, the Board of Directors have formally adopted the following written policy.

The Company considers records created or received during the normal course of business – “a Company Asset”. This includes all documents, regardless of whether they are electronic or hard copy. The Company manages and retains all Company records according to P&G Global Corporate Records Management Policy and P&G Global Corporate Records Retention Schedule. It is the intent of P&G to identify, retain and safeguard all records in accordance with business needs and applicable legal requirements, in an efficient and effective manner.

2. OBJECTIVE:

The objective of this Policy is to develop a guideline for safety, security, preservation and archival of documents, including documents which are required to be disclosed on the website of the Company to ensure compliance with the relevant laws, as may be applicable, from time to time.

3. DEFINITIONS
