

LCMC Health seeks a strategic technology leader to serve as its next Vice President of Technology (VP). This is an exciting opportunity to join a unique community based, multi-hospital system that includes a full-service pediatric hospital as well as teaching hospitals and research programs. LCMC Health is a non-profit, mission driven health system serving the communities and families across New Orleans, the Gulf Coast, and beyond.

Reporting to the Chief Information Officer, the VP will serve as a contributing member of the IT leadership team and will provide the strategic and operational leadership for the technology infrastructure across LCMC Health. The VP will have the opportunity to make a significant impact by developing a vision and roadmap to modernize and advance the technology infrastructure. They will fully evaluate the existing infrastructure including processes, governance, services and outsourced staff and enable a unified, proactive, high performing environment. In addition, the VP will be responsible for developing the future cloud strategy for the health system.

This role is accountable for developing and executing on plans to optimally maintain and standardize the technology across servers, storage, network, and other computing components that ensures effective, reliable services enterprise wide. The VP will subscribe to best practices and must increase the efficiency of the IT infrastructure environment and will be expected to continually improve the cost-effectiveness and project and support capacity of IT. This will be done working in close alignment with IT leadership.

The ideal candidate will be an experienced leader with a proven track record of successfully leading IT infrastructure within a health system. The VP must be viewed as a trusted adviser with exceptional interpersonal and communication skills, able to convey highly technical concepts to non-technical stakeholders. The VP will be a visible and engaging leader who delivers results within a complex organization.
