

Annie Armstrong

Chief Risk Officer Effective July 1

As Chief Risk Officer at LendingClub, Annie is transitioning responsibility for risk and compliance activities from Tim Bogan. Annie has spent over 20 years building, defending, and auditing risk management structures for companies in a broad range of industries, including Financial Services. Prior to joining LendingClub, she served as Global Head of Financial Risk for Uber where she built the risk management function for the then largest pre-IPO company in the Bay Area. Prior to Uber, she was a KPMG Partner serving as the Global Leader for Marketplace Lending as well as co-leading the FinTech practice in the United States. She is a frequent speaker on compliance within the fast paced FinTech industry.

Annie holds a BS in Integrated Science and Technology (ISAT) from James Madison University.

