Parent–child behavior contract

This contract between Ethan and Mom begins on April 10. We developed this contract together and will review it on May 1 to see if we need to change anything.

Goals

Goal: Ethan will use words instead of throwing things when he’s angry at Mom.

Strategies:
1. When Mom holds up 5 fingers as a signal, Ethan will count to 5 to help him think before he acts.
2. When Ethan tries to say why he’s upset, Mom will focus on him and really listen.
3. Ethan will jump on his trampoline to help calm down.

Goal: Ethan will complete his chores without arguing.

Strategies:
1. Ethan will take a break when he’s feeling frustrated.
2. Ethan will start his chores earlier so he’s less tired when doing them.
3. Mom will use a timer to help Ethan see how long it takes to get chores done.
Rewards and consequences

Rewards (for using strategies):
Mom will put a checkmark on the dry-erase board when Ethan meets a goal or uses one of the strategies. When he gets 5 checkmarks, he’ll get 5 extra minutes of video game time.

Consequences (for not using strategies):
Mom will tell Ethan to go to his designated calm-down spot. After he calms down, he’ll clean up anything he threw and do his chores before video game or free time.

Rewards and consequences

Rewards (for using strategies):
Dad will put a checkmark on the dry-erase board when Skyla meets a goal or uses one of the strategies. 10 checkmarks = 30 extra minutes of screen time.

Consequences (for not using strategies):
Late to school = no phone privileges that night. If Skyla doesn’t use her strategies, she’ll be grounded the next weekend.
