- ✓ First set up the Zap, the event that will trigger the next action. Some examples include creating a Doodle poll, or when someone participates in your poll.
- ✓ Next, you choose the action that you'd like to occur once the trigger fires. This could be any action in the 1,500+ applications Zapier integrates with.
- ✓ Sit back and let the automation begin behind the scenes. Save your brainpower for the important work!

Arranging meetings with potential clients? When participants choose time options in your Doodle poll you can create new leads or update contacts automatically in Salesforce.

Streamlining your support processes? When people participate in your Doodle polls you can create users or tickets or add tags to tickets in Zendesk.

Stay updated where work happens. When people participate or you choose a final you can send messages to different Slack channels and keep your colleagues updated with the results.
