

Meet Angela Watkins

Angela has supported the growth of fast-growing tech start-ups and led large-scale workplace transformation and construction projects. Her work is grounded in operational excellence, intentional culture design, and a deep belief in creating spaces where people and animals thrive together.

A lifelong animal lover, Angela shares her home with her Chocolate Lab, Sophie, and her cat, Kevin. She is also a very proud mom of her two free-range adult children, Lauren and Jillian. Angela proudly developed Catalyst Commons as a dog-friendly co-working space, rooted in the belief that animals contribute to healthier, more connected human communities.

Angela lives in Waterloo and enjoys gardening, travel, and exploring how thoughtful environments can bring people—and pets—together in meaningful ways.
