2. The notion of "tax residence" is defined by the national law of each country. The country of tax residence matches in most of the cases the country of the legal address. Please contact your local tax authorities or a legal or tax adviser if you have any doubts about your country of tax residence. You can also find more information on the topic in our FAQ regarding tax residence (https://www.keytradebank.be/eng/support/faq/ > General Questions > Tax Residency).

4. Attention: If your legal address and the address of your tax residence are in different countries, American withholding tax on dividends and interest of American origin will be set per default at a 30% rate. In order to potentially get your American withholding-tax rate reduced to 15%, you should send us a duly completed W-8Ben form (you can find this form at https://www.keytradebank.be/en/support/document-center/).
