In the example, for the transfer from Bank A, the customer will receive the maximum of € 150 because 0.5% of € 40,000 is € 200, which exceeds the maximum amount of € 150 per line of government bond transferred. For the transfer from Bank B, the customer will receive the maximum of € 150 because 0.5% of € 30,000 is € 150, which corresponds to the maximum amount of € 150 per line of government bond transferred. And lastly, for the transfer from Bank C, the customer will receive € 50, i.e., 0.5% of € 10,000.

If the customer only transfers € 30,000 from their government bond to Bank A, where they hold a position with a nominal value of € 40,000, they will be entitled only once to the bonus of € 150 and a refund of transfer costs.
