What are the ingredients in Vision Premium?

Vision Premium can only offer this support if it has the right ingredients. Included components include:

- Lutein Zeaxanthin
- Zinc

- Beta carotene
- Lycopene
- Quercetin
- Taurine
- Grape Seed Extract
- Bilberry Extract

Lutein, Zeaxanthin

This formula combines lutein and zeaxanthin. Both support the user's vision, so they are often found together. They can enhance the clarity and flexibility of the lenses but also improve daytime and evening visual acuity. Many plants contain them, including marigolds which are the focus of the Vision Premium creators.

Zinc

Zinc is a vital component in sustaining the health benefits of the ingredients listed above. These ingredients won't function as well without zinc. Other benefits of zinc include improving the immune system and enhancing the senses of taste and smell.

Beta Carotene

Many foods, such as carrots and dairy, contain beta-carotene. The orange, yellow and green hues of food are due to it. It helps the user see when they are exposed to bright lights such as the blue light of smartphones and computer screens.

Beta-carotene is a powerful antioxidant that protects against the death of eye cells. Beta Carotene can reduce the risk of eye problems for consumers, but carrots are not enough to get it. Vision Premium provides the beta-carotene equivalent of three cups of carrots.

Lycopene

Lycopene, a red pigment, is found in many products, including watermelons and tomatoes. Lycopene is known to protect against the oxidative stress that can cause cell loss in your eyes. Users with high lycopene levels tend to have better vision. According to Brazilian Journal of Ophthalmology lycopene reduces oxidative stresses.

Quercetin

Quercetin, an antioxidant, reduces the turbidity and increases the amount of antioxidants within the lens. It is known to have other health benefits as well as preserving the lens' quality. It prevents heart disease, reduces inflammation and balances blood sugar levels.

Taurine

Taurine is an amino acid that can be found in meat and seafood. It's easy to incorporate into your diet. Researchers found in 2021, that people with vision issues are often low in taurine. The product also helps protect users' eyes from damage caused by various light sources.

Grape Seed Extract

Grape seed extract protects lens cells against oxidative stress. It helps reduce the amount of toxins that are in the body. It protects users against heart disease, diabetes, and cancer. According to research, the extract can be used to prevent users from getting a bacteria-related illness.

Bilberry Extract

Bilberry extract is similar to blueberries in terms of nutritional value. Legend has it that eating bilberries helped improve the night vision of pilots during the Second World War. However, this is not proven. Bilberry fruit is rich in anthocyanosides, which may improve eye problems associated with diabetes and high blood pressure. Bilberries juice reduces toxins by using natural antioxidants like vitamin C and anthocyanins.
