Wild Yam

Wild Yam is a vine that can be found in North America. One source states that scientific evidence is against its use. In the big picture, diosgenin, a plant steroid, has been shown to create progesterone, estrogen, cortisone, and DHEA, which is short for dehydroepiandrosterone. Diosgenin is not a substance that can be naturally converted by the body. It must be processed in a lab. The research available does not support the claims of PMS relief, reduced sex desire, infertility and damaged bones.

Rehmanniae Radix

Rehmanniae Radix belongs to the Scrophulariaceae. It can be used to cool down the body, remove extravasated blood and increase blood fluid. The herb has been shown to have antioxidative properties at the correct dose. (Anything overdosed will cause inflammation), it can lower blood sugar and activate the autonomic nerve system. This ingredient's ability to improve blood health may help with erections, but no direct studies have been conducted.

Dodder Seed Extraction

Dodder seed is an herb used in Chinese traditional medicine to treat diarrhea and improve liver and kidney function. It is also used to improve brain, central nervous system and reproductive health. Dodder seeds are beneficial for men's health. They have an impact on hormone levels and levels of androgen receptor messenger protein and RNA in the kidneys and testicles. This ingredient could restore testosterone and the factors mentioned above, the latter being a major factor in male virility.

Eucommia

Eucommia is a herb that comes from the Chinese Rubber Tree (Eucommia Ulmoides). The chemical composition of this herb includes lignans and flavonoids. This ingredient is used in TCM to build muscles and bones, as well as support the kidneys and endocrine systems. Eucommia is used to treat male impotence, fatigue and fatigue. However, the exact mechanism of action is not known.

Poria Cocos

Poria Cocos has been used by TCM practitioners for more than 2000 years. Researchers have also been looking at it as a possible remedy for various ailments. Although most studies have been conducted on lab animals or animals, there are promising signs of health improvement. Early research suggests that Poria may be effective in treating Alzheimer's disease, type 2 diabetics and certain cancers. Poria could be used to boost vitality, reduce fatigue, and improve the immune system for the Emperor's Vigor Tonic.

Radix Achyranthis

Radix Achyranthis comes from the Amaranthaceae. This root is used in TCM and has the ability of activating blood and dredging meridians, tonifying the liver and kidneys, strengthening bone and tendon and encouraging diuresis. It also eases stranguria and stimulates the blood to move downward. It may also modulate inflammatory responses through an estrogen-like path, and perform antioxidant mechanisms by using immune cells.

Cistanche Extract

Cistanche Extract comes from a parasitic plant called Cistanche Tubulosa. The flower is indigenous to China and has naturally found its way into TCM. In this alternative medicine, the parasitic flower can be used to treat kidney shortage, male infertility and impotence. It also supports many systems within the body. For male health, adding Cistanche extract to the Emperor's Vigorous Tonic can help maintain a positive mood, support men's reproductive system, such as sexual function and prostate function, balance hormone levels, and improve their overall well-being.

Senega

The wild plant Senega grows in Asia, such as China, Korea and Siberia. It is widely used in TCM for treating Lyme disease and Alzheimer's. Senega may have anti-inflammatory effects due to its high concentration of triterpenoid and phenolic saponins. However, human research will be needed to confirm this. There is very little evidence that this wild plant can affect men's performance and health.

Schisandra Powder

Schisandra, a plant that produces fruit and whose seeds are high in lignans. This ingredient, according to one source is good for qi. Qi is the "life force or energy that is inherent in all living beings." It is also reported to be beneficial to multiple pathways including the kidneys, lungs and heart. Schisandra has been shown to help Alzheimer's.

It may also have adaptogenic properties, which can help the body to resist stress and anxiety. This refers to the body's ability to resist the effects of stress and anxiety, while improving its defense against disease. Stress lowers levels of sex-hormones which can reduce sexual motivation or desire, and worsen erectile dysfunction.

Shan Zhu Yu

The ripe pulp is called Shan Zhu Yu. It comes from the woody Cornus officinalis Sieb et Zucc plant. In China, it is harvested in the late autumn or winter. Although it is suggested that the liver and kidneys can be toned, this has not been proven. Securing essence, limiting the sweat and stopping bleeding are other benefits. One study revealed that Shan Zhu Yu could have up to 48 targets in treating depression. This conclusion is based on its high content of beta-sitosterol and telocinobufagin.

Cnidium Monnieri

Cnidium Monnieri has been described in TCM as an herb that promotes erectile function due to its bioactive compound, osthole. The penile tissue and hippocampus are thought to be similar to Viagra. The similarity is due to the ingredient's ability to increase glutaminergic activity in the hippocampus, which leads to erections. One explanation is that osthole promotes dose-dependent relaxation of muscles via PDE inhibition, and nitric oxygen potentiation. A low dose can go a long way, according to research.

Final Thoughts

The Emperor's Vigor Tonic, as a whole, is a health supplement for men that supports erections and virility. It also boosts energy. The fact that many of the ingredients are staples of TCM's alternative medicine repertoire suggests TCM is the basis of this supplement. Cnidium Monnieri and Cistanche Extract are the two most important ingredients for maintaining strong erections.

Some seem to be focused on the positive effects of psychological state such as fatigue and depression. Others focus on the positive impacts of stress, anxiety and stress, and the poor blood supply in the penis. One small percentage seems to have no or little effect on men's health, but instead promotes overall well-being. Does this mean men who suffer from erectile disorders due to neurological disorders or trauma, or those taking medication, surgery, or undergoing medication, will also benefit? This is not clear and requires further research.

We believe that relying on scientific evidence to make good decisions is not always the best approach. Instead, people should decide if they are TCM supporters before starting. We do not question ancient practices. However, for those who prefer to make decisions based on scientific evidence, the studies available are limited, and they only support TCM in certain aspects of men's healthcare. The Emperor's Vigor Tonic could make a positive difference if you consider the entire review. We encourage further investigation to ensure your peace of mind.
