

CITIZENSHIP

The Founding Fathers' ideas of citizenship were greatly influenced by Ancient _____ and _____.

Citizenship describes the relationship between an individual and the _____ he or she lives in.

According to the Constitution, only natural-born citizens are eligible to become _____.

Taking part in _____ is a privilege of being a U.S. citizen.

The _____ to the Constitution states that all persons born or naturalized in the U.S. are American citizens.

_____ and _____ are legal duties of being a U.S. citizen.

Unlike a monarchy, where most people are subject to a single ruler, the U.S. is a _____, a representative democracy where all citizens have equal legal and social status.

Foreigners going through the process of becoming naturalized U.S. citizens must _____ and take the Oath of Allegiance.
