

SUCCESSION WEALTH

Model Portfolio Service (MPS)

Simplicity. Transparency. Trust.

Since 2009, we've built a different kind of financial planning firm. One that's built its reputation on the expertise and personal service we offer nationwide.

We're proud to have highly qualified experts within our team, and our Wealth Planners include Chartered Financial Planners and Fellows of the Personal Finance Society – so you know you're in good hands. Through them we're able to offer independent advice and recommend solutions and investments to you from the whole of the market, without having to compromise.

Our Model Portfolio Service (MPS) has been developed in partnership with our sister company, Succession Advisory Services, giving you access to professional portfolio management from our most trusted, long-standing partners. These solutions, available only to our clients, offer a truly diversified investment strategy, based on your investment objectives, and tailored to the assumptions that underpin your financial plan.

We've made sure the recommended Investment Managers meet our high standards for robust research, clear investment aims and comprehensive process-driven solutions.

When it comes to investing, we believe there are just four simple truths.

1. Asset selection

Research has shown over 90% of returns are explained by one thing, your long-term mix of assets.¹

2. How you feel about risk

Your Wealth Planner's focus will be to recommend the most appropriate investment solution for you, matching your risk profile with the risk rating of the solution.

3. Diversification

Diversity within asset classes and between asset classes. Market fluctuations do happen and are to be expected. Holding a well-diversified portfolio with mixed asset classes will help reduce the risk of investing in any one company, or negative market movement.

4. Composure

Persistence and patience, the best returns often come unevenly, and when least expected. Investors often fair badly by reacting too quickly in a market downturn.

We understand that personal finance needs to be individual, and your Wealth Planner's role is to help you create and then adjust your financial plan to best meet your changing needs. Our ambition is always to use our scale and expertise to bring you a range of flexible and competitively priced solutions to meet your needs.

The range of investment solutions we offer have been developed by our sister company Succession Advisory Services, in conjunction with our most trusted Investment Managers to meet the needs of our clients based on three principles. Simplicity, Transparency, and Trust.

SIMPLICITY

At Succession Wealth we understand the value of financial planning. Model Portfolios allow us to design and mandate solutions to fit our clients' requirements and around our four simple investing truths.

2

TRANSPARENCY

Our portfolios offer complete transparency over their investments, so you can easily and clearly see your holdings and trades as they take place. Our governance is completely transparent, with monthly and quarterly updates available so that your Wealth Planner can keep you informed on your investments.

3

TRUST

Working with Succession Advisory Services, we control the framework for managing the assets and ensuring our chosen outsourced Investment Managers perform in line with our expectations. We have control to appoint and remove Investment Managers should the need arise. We also only use the most trusted Investment Managers that we've worked with over time - they have a clear track record and are subject to constant review and monitoring.

Fund Solutions

Investment portfolios typically include a selection of different funds which hold a range of asset classes like equities, bonds, and property. The challenge can be selecting the right fund, or combination of funds, to meet your needs when there are thousands of investment solutions available.

It's important to consider the level of risk you want to take, the risk rating of the fund and how the fund mix changes over time based on performance. Assets and fund performance will also vary over time, so it's essential to ensure that this is monitored.

It's also valuable to think about how different assets are combined in a portfolio and how well it's diversified, you don't want all your investment eggs in one basket. Ultimately, managing a portfolio like this requires constant monitoring and will mean buying and selling funds; this will be done automatically for you, should you decide to use an MPS.

Why use an MPS?

An MPS is a portfolio of funds which are chosen, maintained, and monitored by an Investment Manager. They display all underlying funds clearly through a platform, so you'll be able to see all changes that take place. Your Wealth Planner will take into consideration your attitude to risk and investment objectives to identify the most appropriate and effective solution for you to invest in.

Exclusivity

Most MPS are not available to the public, like funds, and can only be accessed with advice from a regulated financial planner. They are designed to meet the specific needs of certain groups of clients.

Monitoring

The Investment Manager oversees the MPS to meet agreed parameters (the mandate) to give you the best chance of meeting your investment goals.

Rebalancing

The portfolio is carefully monitored to ensure the solution performs within the defined parameters by 'rebalancing' (buying and selling underlying assets to align to original objective) either on a regular frequency, or when certain triggers are met, for example, an asset class moves 5% over tolerance and is brought back into line with the mandate.

Discretion

Because it's a discretionary arrangement changes to the portfolio can be made quickly and without the need for you to complete additional paperwork or instructions. This also means that the Investment Manager can act to reduce risk, or take advantage of opportunities, when the macro-economic landscape changes.

Cost Savings

Their scale means the Investment Manager can often reduce underlying costs by accessing cheaper share classes.

Your Wealth Planner

- Works with you to establish your investment objectives.
- Considers your attitude to risk.
- Will identify the investment style which best meets your needs.
- Recommends the appropriate solution.

Succession Model Portfolio Service

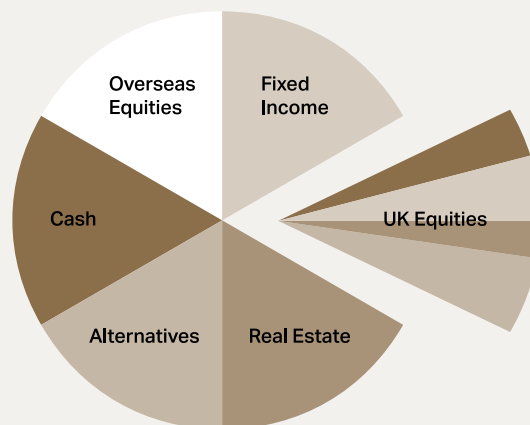

- Working with our sister company, Succession Advisory Services, we've defined objectives for each of our model portfolios to ensure we can meet our client's investment needs.
- Our portfolios have clearly defined objectives. For example, to achieve a set level of growth based on a defined level of volatility.
- Our portfolios have a range of styles – blended, active or passive investing, traditional or sustainable.
- We've selected our most trusted partners to take on the role of Investment Manager.
- If the Investment Manager performance is not in line with our expectations, we can choose another from across the market and this can be done quickly if needed.

How Succession MPS works for you

Asset Allocation

- The Investment Manager builds the portfolio with a range of different asset types depending on the objective of the fund and their investment philosophy.
- These assets are the basis for long term growth.
- The amount of the assets in each portfolio is reflective of the level of risk being taken, so the level of each component will vary.

Selection

- Within each asset class the Investment Manager will use their expertise to select a basket of funds to best meet the objectives of the portfolio:
 - Performance
 - Volatility
 - Maximum loss
 - Manager styles
- Each fund is managed to meet its individual aim by expert fund managers.
- The Investment Manager oversees the whole portfolio and will add and remove funds to meet the portfolio objectives.
- The discretionary arrangement means they can do this quickly and efficiently.
- The Investment Manager can leverage their scale to reduce the fund costs.

Our MPS range gives you access to professional and proven investment teams and processes, from trusted and long-standing investment specialists who will manage your investment to the parameters we set out, aiming to deliver the returns you are expecting, and based on the level of risk you are taking.

You'll see in the bar chart below, how risk and reward have been balanced for each of the attitude categories over five years.

Succession Portfolio vs Expected Parameters

Source: RSMR, September 2021

The annual data is based on a five-year view. Maximum loss is viewed over an annual period, as it indicates the maximum potential, continuous loss of capital for each risk profile in a falling market, so you should be aware that in any specified annual period, loss may exceed these parameters, but should fall within the parameters over the longer term.

Risk Profiles (level of risk)

1. Defensive

You have a low appetite for risk and aim to avoid large fluctuations, even if it means relatively low levels of capital growth.

2. Cautious

You are willing to risk some fluctuations, but your portfolio is still mostly defensive. You have the potential for real growth but limited compared to a higher-risk approach.

3. Balanced

You are seeking above-average returns, while still balancing risk and reward. You aim to avoid significant fluctuations but are willing to hold some higher-risk assets.

4. Moderately Adventurous

You are confident investing in a broad range of assets to pursue higher returns. You are prepared for short-term fluctuations to access assets with a greater potential for growth.

5. Adventurous

You are an experienced investor with a greater propensity for risk. You are prepared to invest most assets in higher-risk asset classes that are more volatile, but with much higher potential for losses or gains.

In conjunction with our third-party research partner Rayner Spencer Mills Research (RSMR), we designed the expectations detailed on the previous page of portfolio performance in terms of both risk and reward. To do this, we analysed over 100 years of equity and bonds data and compared it with the asset allocations from various risk profiling tools used across the industry, as well as factoring in the forward-looking views of various major institutions. These expectations are annualised over a five-year period, and whilst clients may not see these levels of performance year on year, we expect performance over five years to sit within these parameters. We also conduct a review of our parameters every year to ensure portfolio objectives remain sensible.

MPS are monitored and rebalanced regularly to make sure that the underlying holdings keep your portfolio in line with set risk, and returns, parameters.

Oversight and Governance

Succession Advisory Services have developed a robust governance structure with repeatable processes and constant monitoring to ensure the investment solutions we offer work for you and that they meet the agreed mandate (expected parameters).

Succession Advisory Services continuously monitor processes and challenge the information gathered from each Investment Manager, as well as comparing our range to a dynamic secondary benchmark, the Private Client Indices by Asset Risk Consultants. This is an index containing circa 100+ discretionary Fund Managers across the industry and ensures our MPS range remains competitive.

We believe that continuous monitoring is crucial, to ensure the investment solutions we use in your financial plan helps you achieve your dreams and aspirations. The Succession Wealth Investment Committee oversee the governance and oversight processes to ensure the solutions meet the needs of our clients.

Succession Model Portfolio Service

MPS are an excellent way of accessing investment expertise from across the market and are a truly diversified investment.

We've worked with Succession Advisory Services and chosen Investment Managers to design solutions which support a range of investment objectives. The chosen Investment Managers target investment objectives that are differentiated by their own investment philosophies and processes to achieve the mandate.

Determining a set of guiding rules and beliefs, that will provide the basis for making astute investment decisions, should be a first step before making any investment. These rules form your own personal investment philosophy. This will become the central perspective from which you evaluate all investment options and help focus on what is truly important to you.

The MPS Investment Managers have their own philosophies, and your Wealth Planner will be able to guide you through the different MPS options to determine the most appropriate solution for your own investment philosophy.

Fund Styles

Active

Attempt to outperform a benchmark or market by actively picking funds and strategically timing investments into funds. Asset allocation tends to select those assets expected to perform well and excluding those with potential headwinds and the Investment Manager may strategically time their investments to provide a greater return.

Passive

Attempt to match a benchmark or market return by weighting the portfolio in the same way as the benchmark or market it is tracking. Activity is generally less than active managers with stock selection and market timing excluded from the Investment Manager's process. Asset allocation tends to be a broader representative of the benchmark, or market being tracked.

Blended

A combination of both active and passive investment either favouring actively picking funds or strategically timing investments into funds.

Sustainable

Investments based on responsible contribution and benefiting the global sustainable economy. We offer this through both active and passive philosophies.

Ethical/Impact

Investments made with the intention to generate positive, measurable, social and environmental impact alongside a financial return.

MPS are an incredible way to help you work towards your financial aspirations and we're confident that our portfolios can offer an investment solution to meet your needs.
