

Here's what happens to an estate when someone dies without making a Will

When someone dies without a Will, it means they've died 'intestate'. This means that their estate (money, possessions and property) is shared out according to the rules of intestacy, regardless of whether this is what they would have wanted.

Having a Will in place will ensure your affairs are taken care of after you die and that your assets are distributed to the people you care about.

Visit www.co-oplegalservices.co.uk/will for further information.

