Course Description

In this session, we take the time to discuss the research and science behind this program. As you think about this session, think about recent conversations you have had that were less than satisfactory and consider how self-clarity and self-responsibility can fortify your leadership.

Learning Objectives

At the end of this session you will be able to:

- Describe how multigenerational family relationship patterns influence leadership behaviors at work
- List similarities between animal and human relationship behaviors
- Recognize your role in relationship challenges that occur at work and at home
- Identify the key characteristics of an open mindset
- Name the Three Flowers of Leadership and identify the flower you most need to nourish

¹Note that the proper reporting is dependent on the requirements of your state board of accountancy. (These requirements may address fields of study classifications and credit hours recognition.)
