POISON PREVENTION AWARENESS MONTH!

It's not something we like to think about, but there are a number of items in and around our homes that are poisonous to pets. With any potential dangers or toxins, it is important to keep them out of paws' reach. While accidents can happen, the less accessible these items are, the less likely your pet is to get into them!

Some of the most common toxins are medications human food, chocolate, certain plants, cleaners, insecticides, and recreational drugs.

If you think your pet has ingested something toxic:

- Call your veterinarian OR
- Go to your nearest emergency veterinary hospital OR
- Call the ASPCA Animal Poison Control Center at 1-888-426-4435 (fee applies) or Pet Poison Helpline at 1-800-213-6680 (fee applies).

WHAT'S IN THIS MONTH'S ISSUE:

1. Poison Prevention Awareness Month
2. Upcoming Events
3. Fun Holidays this month and a message from PJ!
4. Donation drive

It's important to seek out help immediately – poisons can work fast!

- Try to determine what your pet has ingested and how much
- Bring the container/item with you or take a picture of the ingredient list
- Keep track of signs of illness (vomiting, shaking, etc.) so you can share them with your veterinarian
- Be honest with your veterinarian about what your pet may have consumed

A message from PJ!

Head of Human Resources and Public Relations
Officer

There have been a few changes here at Clover Valley Vet within the past few months. Under my supervision, we have implemented numerous marketing programs to give back to the community, update our protocols, and building our team up to provide better care (and treats) all all of those born with 4 paws or hooves.

I have purrsonally witnessed the greatness that have come from these changes and we hope that you do too (if not, report directly to me and I will get it squared away)!
