

Pet Burial & Cemeteries

A Note on Home Burial

Illinois law allows residents to bury their beloved pets on their own private property, if the pet does not carry an infectious disease. The burial location must be no less than 200 feet from a stream, private potable water supply well, or any other potable water supply source, as well as at least 200 feet from property you do not own (§ 90.110). It is recommended that the burial plot is a minimum of three feet deep.

In addition to the state law, different counties may have different restrictions about animal burial. If you are electing to take your companion animal home for burial on your own private property, please check with your city for specific laws & regulations.

Below is a list of pet cemeteries should you elect to pursue “traditional” burial. Keep in mind that many of these cemeteries will have differing costs associated with opening/closing a plot, caskets, flowers, headstones, etc. There is no right or wrong way to honor your pet!
