

24 September 2019

Parliament is due to resume tomorrow, Wednesday 25 September. We recognise that MPs may incur costs for travelling back to Westminster. IPSA will pay all reasonable costs for MPs to travel back to Westminster or their London Area residence. This includes international travel back to the UK from another country if necessary. Reasonable travel for spouses/partners and dependants will also be reimbursed. IPSA will also cover reasonable costs for MPs' staff to travel back to Westminster from within the UK.

MPs and staff are advised to retain all receipts and invoices relating to their travel costs. In order to claim for travel, please select your travel category (e.g. air or rail) and then under the heading 'journey type' select 'Extended UK Travel' for journeys back to Westminster from parts of the UK outside your constituency. In the "add information field" please ensure that your notes include reference to the fact that 'Parliament resumed at short notice on Wednesday 25 September 2019'. If you are travelling between your constituency and Westminster, you should select 'Between constituency and London' as the journey type.

The normal rules of The Scheme apply, including with regard to the hotel nightly cost limits and class of travel.
